Fire District Wins Court Appeal

Right To Sue County Is Upheld By Appellate Body

By LARRY GLAZIER

In a precedent-making decision, the District Court of Appeals in San Francisco this week reversed a ruling of the Contra Costa County Superior Court and decided in favor of the Orinda Fire Protection District.

The ruling of the higher court enables the fire district to continue its suit against the county for $13,208 in damages incurred during March and April of 1957 when San Pablo Creek, blocked by a county road project, overflowed three times and flooded the main firehouse.

Zach Montgomery of the board of commissioners of the fire district said the new ruling states, in effect, that "Fire districts do not belong to the county—they belong to the people within the individual districts and they are "municipal corporations'."

The board of fire commissioners met last night to determine further action in the case. There is a required 30-day waiting period, Montgomery said, and then the case goes back to the superior court for trial.

IN ITS DECISION, the appellate court ruled the district has the right to sue Contra Costa County even though it did not file the action within 90 days of the flooding, as required by state law.

The superior court dismsised the action against the county on that basis.

Robert Eshelman, attorney for the fire district, contended that the suit was not filed in time because the district relied on the advice of the district attorney and the board of supervisors, who held that the district could not sue the county and the action should be against the contractor, Frederickson and Watson Company.

ESHELMAN MAINTAINED, however, that both the county and the contractor should be sued, and when the county took no action against the firm, the district sued both parties.

The superior court, while dismissing the action against the county, remained silent as to the contracting firm, and when the suit goes back into superior court it will include both the county and the contractor.

Montgomery stated that the appeal was filed because the district wanted to prove its right to sue the county and wanted also to show that it had the right to be free of the statute of limitations.

AT ISSUE IS $12,500 damage to the main fire station on Avenida de Orinda in the Village and $708 damage to personal property of firemen on duty.

The district claims flooding resulted from the construction work on the Orinda Village bypass road. It says the rain runoff cut its own channel across the construction zone.

The fire station basement and kitchen were flooded with nearly four feet of muddy water, interrupting telephone service to the station for some time.

Three days later, the fire station was again flooded, when a temporary diversion dam gave way and the waters seeped into the same station two months later, also.

Association Will Hear Nominations At Monday Meet

Nominations to fill five directorships of the Orinda Association will be accepted at the regular meeting of the association's directors at 8 p.m. Monday in the Orinda School.

The presentation of the nominations from the civic affairs committee of the association will highlight the meeting.

$105,000 Sale Of Bonds OK'd

The bonds are part of a $950,000 issue passed by voters in 1957.

Study It 10 Years, Says Nielson of Tax District

"I recommend that such a proposal be studied for no less than 10 years," County Supervisor Mel Nielsen said this week of the Mayors Conference plan to establish a road maintenance tax district in the unincorporated areas.

He added, during the supervisor meeting in Martinez, "It is very good of the cities to recommend an increase in county taxes in the unincorporated area so they can reduce taxes within city boundaries, and then tell their taxpayers, 'Look what we've done for you.' "

County Administrator J. P. McBrien told the supervisors the proposal is a move to allow cities to receive a tax exemption for money the county spends on sec-

He recommended that the supervisors defer action, and he was asked to study and report on the effect of future city annexations would have on the proposed tax district.

Mayors conference proponents earlier said the new tax district would eliminate the unequal situation where city residents pay a large percentage of their city property taxes for street construction and maintenance, and county residents pay only a small percentage, leaving the rest to be covered by gas tax subventions.

Such a tax is in effect in Sacramento County. Very preliminary figures here indicate the tax might be 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the county areas, and annual revenue might be $650,000.

Central County May Soon Have Second Muni Court

Walnut Creek may soon have a municipal court in place of its judicial court.

Edward J. Rice, an Oakland attorney who lives in Walnut Creek, has made the first legal step for changing the status of the Walnut Creek Justice court to a municipal court.

THE FORMAL MOVE is a petition from Rice to the Concord Municipal Court asking for a change of venue on a civil case to the Walnut Creek Municipal Court.

This court at present is nonexistent, but under state law, if the area qualifies for a municipal court, one will be created.

The main point of his argument is that there are now more than 40,000 persons in the Walnut Creek Judicial District and that state law provides that each municipality with 40,000 population shall have a municipal court.

"That word 'shall' is all important," Rice said. "That is the same as 'must.' "

The attorney said he will rely mainly on a section of the state code to establish the 40,000 population.

"IT SAYS THAT the number of registered voters in a judicial district shall be doubled to determine the official' population,' Rice said. "The last primary list showed 28,773 there."

The civil case which Rice will use as a vehicle for creating the municipal court involves a rent dispute between two Walnut Creek men.

Robert Hamlin sued Fred Glatt on Sept. 16 for $600 he claims Glatt owes him for rent on a piece of property at 3425 Golden Gate Way in Lafayette, which is within the Walnut Creek judicial district.

The suit was filed in Concord Municipal Court because municipal district courts have jurisdiction only in cases involving $500 or less.

RICE, AS GLATT'S attorney, asked for the change of venue.

The petition will be heard by Concord Municipal Judge Louis J. McKannay at 1 p.m. November 6.

"Of course I can't second-guess the judge, but precedent would indicate that he will deny my change of venue request without prejudice. Then I can appeal to the Contra Costa County Superior Court, which is qualified to rule on the population in Walnut Creek," Rice said.

"If the Superior Court rules in my favor, the Walnut Creek Municipal Court will be established automatically."

Judge McKannay is well acquainted with this procedure for establishing municipal courts. As an attorney he filed a similar suit which resulted in the establishment of the court over which he now presides.

SHOULD THE Walnut Creek Court be created, the judicial district judge, Betsy FitzGerald Rahn, would preside over it.

In this new capacity she would draw a salary of $15,000 a year, and this would increase to $18,000 on January 1, according to a law passed at the last session of the Legislature.

Her present salary is $8,000.

Attorney Suggests Alternate Plan For Muni Court

A Pleasant Hill attorney has suggested a method by which substantial savings may be effected should a Walnut Creek Municipal Court be created.

Maurice (Yank) Marcus proposes that a single Central Contra Costa Municipal Court with two departments be established rather than the creation of a second court in addition to the present Concord Municipal Court.

MARCUS COMMENTED yesterday in a statement to The Sun, that the single court with two departments would lead to considerable savings in salary alone.

Marcus commented the creation of the single court with two departments, one in Walnut Creek and one in Concord, would lead to the appointment of one marshal rather than two and one chief clerk rather than two.

Also, Marcus pointed out, the calendar of the two departments would be interchangeable leading to the more effective use of the two courts.

MARCUS, OF THE law firm of Marcus and Bradbard, opined the workload of the Walnut Creek court would be greatly increased by the change to municipal status and having one master calendar for the two courts would help distribute this work load.

The Sun has been long opposed to the creation of a municipal court in Walnut Creek because of the cost to the taxpayers of the judicial district.

The primary objection is the cost to the taxpayer.

For the 1956-57 fiscal year, the net operating profit of the Walnut Creek justice court was $42,513.35.

The net loss of the Concord municipal court for 1957-58 was in the neighborhood of $16,000.

The Walnut Creek judicial district covers Orinda, Lafayette, Walnut Creek, Alamo and as far north as Geary Road.

The population estimate within its boundaries is estimated at about 90,000 people.

There are also two municipal courts that serve this population area—Concord and Richmond.

When the Concord municipal court was formed in 1956, The Sun was in favor of the move because it was difficult for residents of this area to have to travel to Richmond for cases requiring a municipal court.

The cost of a municipal court has been estimated to be some $30,000. This does not includes salary of a bailiff, which is paid by the county.

Supreme Court Decision Stalls Sanitary District

A recent State Supreme Court decision has forced postponement of consideration of revisions to the Central Contra Costa Sanitary District's new garbage permit ordinance.

The ordinance, adopted September 3 and made effective about 10 days later, will be discussed again when the directors of the district meet November 5 at 1250 Springbrook Road, Walnut Creek.

AT THAT TIME, John Bohn, attorney for the sanitary district, will report on the State Supreme Court's ruling of October 2 in the East Bay Garbage Company vs. Washington Township Sanitation Company case.

The court case, which was appealed from the Alameda County Superior Court, affects the manner of issuing garbage permits by sanitary districts.

And some officials of the local district feel that when the new ruling is studied and interpreted it may require that sanitary districts grant overall district-wide permits, rather than zone permits, as in intended by the September 3 ordinance.

THE DIRECTORS first learned of the new ruling at last Thursday night's meeting, when it was brought to their attention by a fellow board member and practicing attorney, Ernest Spiegl of Orinda.

Original plans for the meeting last week called for the directors to consider minor revisions to the regulatory ordinance and set a date for a public hearing, at which area garbage companies could apply for exclusive permits.

In the light of the court decision, directors postponed action on the revisions and the hearing and asked Bohn to make a complete study of the decision prior to the November 5 meeting.

WILLIAM DALTON, administrative engineer of the district, said, "The new court ruling has stalemated us. There is a possibility that it may require a substantial revision of the ordinance."

Terence Ring, Walnut Creek attorney who represents four of the five garbage companies in the area, said he could find nothing in the new ruling nor in the Health and Safety Code which would force districts to grant single exclusive permits.

He explained, "From my observation of this case, the decision does not say sanitary districts have to award exclusive permits within a district.

"IT APPEARS THE decision says whatever permits are awarded within a district have to be granted through competitive bidding.

"There is nothing in the ruling or the code which would forbid the granting of zone permits as long as there was competitive bidding withis each zone where bids were asked."

Ring said the difference between garbage services required by Orinda residents as opposed to those of Gregory Gardens, for example, would make zone permits preferable within a district.

THE WALNUT CREEK attorney represented all five companies at the meeting during which the ordinance was adopted, but since then, he has ceased to represent the Pleasant Hill Disposal Service (Boyd Olney).

Other companies in the district are Orinda Garbage and Refuse Disposal, Diablo Disposal Service, Lafayette Garbage Disposal and Valley Disposal Service, Inc.

Gerry Horstkotte, district engineer, has said previously that there would be no bidding for the zone permits within the local sanitary district, but permits would be granted generally on the basis of ". . . the firms which have been doing it in the specified areas for X number of years."

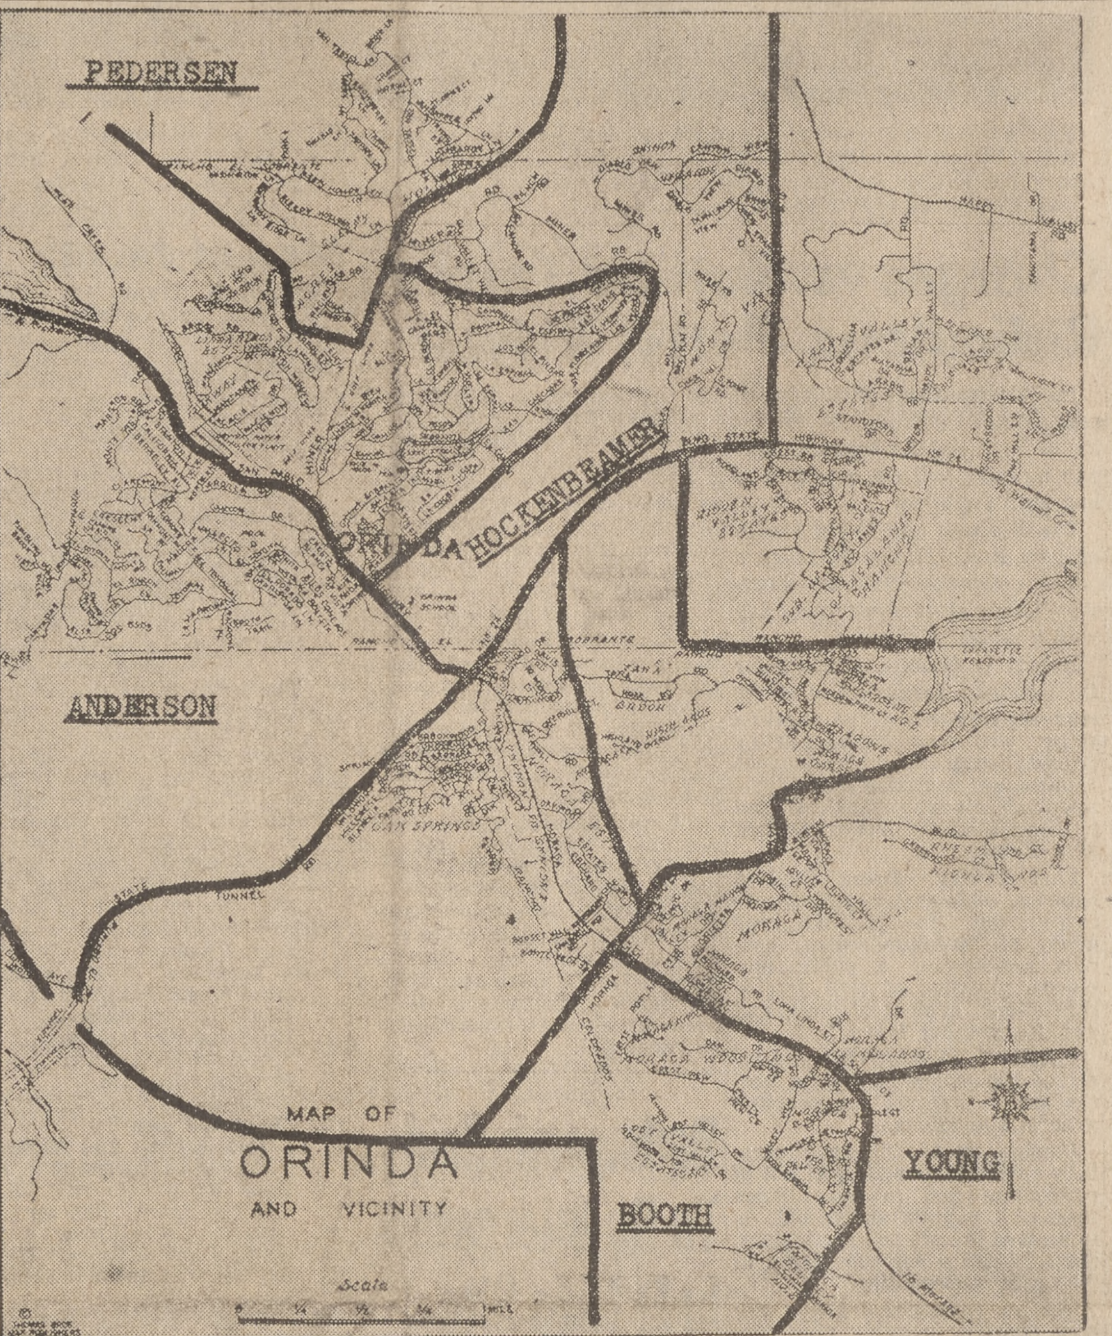
Drive Will Help AFS Program

An annual Halloween fund drive will be held October 31 and November 1 by the Orinda Chapter of the American Field Service.

Money is needed to finance two foreign students next year, according to Mrs. Lil Mika, chapter chairman for Orinda AFS.

Goal this year is $2000. Last year $1300 was raised.

AFS representatives, identified by arm bands, will visit local homes on both days. This is the third year the program has been at Miramonte.



DIRECTORS OF the Orinda Association whose terms of office expire this year are shown in the above map, with their areas of representation outlined. Association members are invited to nominate persons from these areas to face election late next month. Nominations will be accepted at the regular meeting of the association's directors at 8 p.m. Monday in the Orinda School. There are four holdover directors from the other areas shown here.

Collings Charges That Lot Sizes Are Too Small

A citizen of Moraga charged this week that the Utah Construction Company broke faith with residents of Moraga in 1957 when the firm received approval of two subdivisions which contain many lots under 10,000 square feet in size.

Rex A. Collings Jr., professor of law at the University of California, who represented the Moraga Valley Community Club in recent hearings before the county planning commission, made the statement as the result of studies conducted in Martinez throughout the week.

THE STUDIES followed the appointment last Thursday night by the community club of a "watchdog committee." The vote in favor of the committee and of a continuing fight to keep Moraga residential was 55-1.

Collings said, "The people of this area have learned that eternal vigilance in Martinez is the price of ilberty."

Moragans determined they have only two alternatives, he added, "To keep the constant watch in Martinez or to incorporate."

THE ATTORNEY, who resides on Donald Drive in the Rheem area, stated that in 1955, when the county planning commission was first considered a General Plan for Moraga, the understanding of everyone was that the minimum residential lot size in Moraga would be 10,000 square feet.

In 1957, however, "Utah sneaked in the back door and filed subdivision maps for some 272 lots, many of which contain 8000 square feet," he explained.

Collins referred to Tracts 2441 and 2592, the latter encompassing an area which did not have a final map filed until after March 31, 1959, 10 months after the general plan for the area was adopted by the planning commission.

THE AREAS involved include the Orchard Dell area, the second unit of which Utah is presently beginning to open for construction and sale, according to Collings.

Although a precise zoning plan for the 8000-acre Moraga area was adopted by the county planning commission earlier this month and now is spending, the only binding force on the area is a master plan of 1945, which lists all of the acreage as agricultural.

Collings charged that "The 8000-square foot lots are in direct conflict with the General Plan of Moraga, as wall as the zoning proposal now pending before the board of supervisors.

"THE ZONING proposal provides for a minimum lot size of 10,000 square feet, and I think one can see why the people of Moraga have little faith in the Utah Construction Company."
county is upgrading the Moraga area by proposing the pending zoning ordinance. Until there is zoning, Utah can put up whatever it wants on the property, including a shack."

Flares Lighting Accident Set Car Ablaze

An unidentified passer-by who saw the car of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Lane of 107 Moraga Way overturn in front of their home, raced to the scene and put out flares.

But the well-intention act almost turned into tragedy.

The flares ignited gasoline from the car and the couple were able to escape only seconds before it was consumed by the fire.

The wife, Daphne, said she was driving with a learner's permit and her husband has an operator's license.

She told The Sun that reports that she lost control of the car while reaching across her husband to close a door on the right side were incorrect, adding that the door opened on her side, in front of an oncoming car.

The car careened into a ditch at the side of he road and rolled

Neither husband nor wife were injured.

Mrs. Lang told The Sun, ". . . in the confusion we were unable to thank personally all those wonderful people who came to our aid.

Directors Will Consider New Sewer Charge

Provision for a "sewer use charge" has been submitted to the directors of the Central Contra Costa Sanitary District for consideration at their November 5 meeting.

The result of nearly a year's study, the provision was submitted by John Bohn, attorney for the district, in the form of a revision to the existing connection charge ordinance.

DIRECTORS OF THE district received the provision at last Thursday's meeting, and although some action may be taken November 5, indications are the matter probably will be postponed again, according to William Dalton, the district's administrative engineer.

The commercial service charge, as the "sewer use charge" is officially known, would vary according to usage and fixtures, just as the connection charge does.

District Engineer Gerry Horstkotte previously had told The Sun that passage of a sewer use charge would result in a reduction of the controversial connection charge to about one-third of its present average of about $150.

Orinda Youth Is Aboard Princeton

Robert E. Osborn, fireman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Osborn of 11 Crestview Drvie, is serving aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Princeton operating out of Long Beach.

In early October the Princeton participated in an amphibious training exercise off the Southern California Coast.

Known as Operation "Eagle Eye," and involving Marines from Camp Pendleton and a Marine helicopter squadron from the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station at San Diego, the exercise was designed to develop proficiency in planning and conducting a routine training operation and to more fully develop the new Marine Corps principle of "vertical envelopment."

Charges vs. Rathke Termed Ridiculous, Petty, Trivial

The Contra Costa civil service commission hearings into the firing of Ruth Rathke began yesterday morning and are expected to last until tomorrow.

The hearings are being broadcast by Radio Station KKIS as a public affairs service. The hearings began at 10 a.m. yesterday with a series of charges.

Robert L. Condon, attorney for Ruth Rathke, former head of the civil department of the sheriff's office, who was discharged by Sheriff Young, today branded as "ridiculous, petty and trivial" the so-called bill of particulars filed by Sheriff Walter Young against Mrs. Rathke.

Last Friday, Young filed a notice of dismissal, charging generally that Mrs. Rathke was guilty of "insubordination, conduct unbecoming a public employee, violation of civil service regulations, neglect of duty, and absence without leave."

CONDON DEMANDED and received the purported bill of particulars to support the sheriff's general allegations.

Condon stated, "I have carefully reviewed this alleged bill of particulars and in my opinion most of it is petty and trivial. As to most of the alleged particulars, there is still a confused mass of glattering generalities."

Condon continued "There are only eight or possibly nine separate charges in addition to a charge of unauthorized absence on six specific days."

"Of the six specific unauthorized absences," Condon stated, "four of them were on days when Mrs. Rathke was taking examinations at the law school which she has been attending evenings.

"In the first place," he continued, "Mrs. Rathke did not take full days, but only a few hours off, with the specific permission from Sheriff Young, for these examinations. She took this time off on her accumulated overtime," he noted.

"On the other two days when she allegedly had unauthorized absences, one was when she appeared before the grand jury, and the second when she appeared before the attorney general. On both of these occasions she notified her superiors, and was in no position to ignore the subpoenas served on her," Condon stated.

"The other charges which include such things as reading law books during her coffee break and lunch hour, criticizing the sheriff's brother-in-law, Undersheriff Harry A. Ramsey, with other persons who were also critical of the undersheriff, are so petty as to hardly be worthy of the excitement that the sheriff has shown.

"As to the charge of refusing to do secretarial work for Sheriff Young and allegedly soliciting for the ex-sheriff, Harry Brown, from an unnamed person in 1958, these are charges of which Mrs. Rathke has absolutely no knowledge," Condon claimed.

"The bill of particulars doesn't change the essential issue. Can a civil servant be first demoted and then discharged because she reported first to the attorney general and later to the grand jury, irregularities in the conduct of the sheriff's office?"

Condon stated that this is the real issue, and everything else in Young's purported bill of particulars is hardly worthy of answer."

Condon added that he was convinced that Mrs. Rathke would be vindicated either by the civil service commission, or ultimately by the courts.

"A civil servant who does her duty as a public employee and as a citizen, in reporting wrongdoing, cannot be disciplined or discharged," Condon asserted.

"If persons in public office must remain mute when they see wrongdoing," Condon said, "clean and honest government will become an absolute impossibility," he concluded.

Bedsworth Said To Be Interested In El Nido Site

The owner of the El Nido Rancho Hotel and Restaurant property has denied any knowledge of a report that Jay Bedsworth, former Tunnel Strip restaurateur, is planning to undertake operation of the El Nido.

Edmund C. Barnett, Walnut Creek attorney, owns all of the El Nido property and leased the restaurant and bar portion, which recently was padlocked by federal tax agents.

BARNETT SAID this week that he is anxious to see something done about the restaurant and bar which would permit him to continue operation of the entire Tunnel Strip nitery, but stated he has no knowledge of Bedsworth's intent.

The former operator of the Tunnel Inn, now Petar's, in Lafayette, Bedsworth is believed to be in the Lake Tahoe area and could not be reached for comment on the report.

According to the report, Bedsworth is negotiating for assumption of the entire El Nido operation.

NIDO, INC., the firm which leased the restaurant and bar portion of the El Nido from Barnett, was charged with failing to pay withholding taxes to the federal government, and was shut down in an attempt to liquidate the assets.

Bridge Players Flock from Central County to Tourney

By ROD ERNST

Last weekend was an exciting one for all bridge players as they flocked to San Francisco to play in the sectional championships at the YWCA. Once again duplicate bridge showed its fascination as hands were discussed far into the wee hours of the morning.

If this wasn't enough, the population of this area was once again temporarily reduced last weekend. Bridge players trekked to Sacramento to compete in their annual sectional championships (yours truly included, of course) at the Senator Hotel.

Last week we discussed briefly some parts of the Stayman Convention, the means of reaching a major suit contract over a one notrump opening bid when each of the partners holds four cards in the same major suit.

Now let's discuss the situation where responder bids two clubs and the opener does not hold four hearts or four spades. In this case he bids two diamonds with a minimum and two notrump with a maximum notrump opener. With these bids the opener denies that he holds either hour hearts or four spades.

What does responder do now? Holding no more than four cards in either major suit, he will rebid two notrump over two diamonds with seven or eight points and opener is obligated to pass since there cannot be enough points in the combined hands to produce game.

If opener rebids two notrump over two clubs, then responder simply proceeds to three notrump. Responder knows that opener had a maximum notrump and even holding only seven or eight points, the odds are that game in notrump can be made.

Another situation that occurs frequently is that responder holds a five card or longer major suit and seven or eight points. He knows that if opener has a maximum notrump then there is enough points for game.

So he simply responds two clubs to the opening notrump bid. If opener rebids two diamonds (showing a minimum hand) then you simply bid two in your five card major suit. Opener will now raise you to three of your suit if he holds three cards to an honor or two notrump without this holding. Whatever his bid, you will be obligated to pass since the partnership does not hold enough points to make game.

Supposing your five card or longer major suit is spades. If over two clubs your partner bids two hearts—again you bid two spades.

Your teammate will raise you to three with three trumps and a minimum; four, with three trumps and a maximum. With any other holding, he will bid two or three notrump depending on whether he holds a minimum or maximum notrump opener.

Of course, if partner bids two spades (your five card suit) then you raise to three with seven or eight points and to four with nine to thirteen.

One last point to consider is the case where opener rebids two notrump or your two club response, indicating a maximum no trump and no four card major. You simply bid your five card or longer suit and opener is obliged to bid game holding three of your suit or bid three notrump with any other holding.

I would be happy to answer any specific problems you may have concerning this convention. Future articles will present some additional information concerning the use and play of this "Stayman Convention."

Bike Riders Warned to 'Be Careful'

Captain Russel R. Magill, commander of the California Highway Patrol's Contra Costa area, today appealed to young bicycle riders of the area not to turn their handlebars upward so that the grips are more than head-high.

"This dangerous practice has spread rapidly in recent months," Magill said, "probably because the youngsters don't realize the hazard their are creating. We hope they will voluntarily return their handlebars to the normal, safer position before something tragic happens."

The CHP commander said that during safety programs conducted at schools, bicycles with handlebars turned upward take up to 15 feet longer to stop than bikes with the bars where they belong.

"The rider is out of balance while reaching upward and outward and does not respond as quickly when the need to stop arises. Fifteen feet may easily represent the difference between safety and disaster.

"Fads such as this are part of growing up, but in this instance the element of danger is of more importance than the fun involved. We hope the youngsters and their parents will cooperate to eliminate this hazard."

Miramonte High Students Approve Code of Conduct

The Students' Code of Conduct was approved by a vast majority of classrooms in Miramonte High School last Friday afternoon.

Officials of the Orinda High School said this week that the code will become part of the students' handbook beginning next year. Copies of the code were given to all students at the school.

THE MIRAMONTE SET of standards is one of the few approved in the Bay Area, but several other high schools are in the process of formulating similar codes.

A parent-student-faculty committee established at the beginning of the 1958-59 school year drew up the code, which was approved by the student council earlier this month and then was put to a student vote last week.

Mrs. A. E. Syverud, chairman of the teenage code committee, said:

"MANY PARENTS ARE parents of teenagers for the first time and are not certain about hours for dates, types of parties and so forth. As parents we need fortification to combat the pressure when our teenager says, 'Everybody does it.' Also, teenagers need backing when adults may be unreasonable in their demands.

"As teenagers mature, they want more freedom. They usually want direction, but not commands. Group pressure can often put them 'on the spot.' They want and need the understanding cooperation of their parents."

The code, as approved by the Miramonte students, is reprinted in full here:

"As we approach adulthood we want to express our own convictions. The Code of Conduct which follows is recommended to aid all of us in our quest for maturity as we progress through the years of high school, and to guide us in creating our own principles.

PARENT TEENAGE RELATIONSHIPS

1. We and our parents should discuss our problems together. This will lead to a better understanding between us. It will result in our receiving the trust and responsibility we are capable of handling.

2. We should introduce our friends to our parents. If we don't, there may be room for suspicion as to the character of our friends. Parents should welcome the opportunity to meet their sons' and daughters' companions and friends.

3. It is important that we inform our parents as to where we plan to be, whom we expect to be with, and what time we expect to be home.

PARTIES

1. To discourage crashers, we should send invitations or telephone the specific time, date and location for all parties.

2. We feel it is discourteous for anyone to attend a party, not personally invited by the host or hostess, unless the party has been designated an "Open House." (CRASHERS should be politely but firmly ousted.)

3. A responsible adult should be present at all parties. We do not feel that this adult should serve as a policeman, but should be on call in case of trouble.

4. When we plan parties and other functions, we should take into consideration that curfew on weekends is 12 p.m. at adult sponsored affairs and 10 p.m. on school nights. Although it is not always enforced, it is frequently used as an instrument to pick up trouble makers.

5. If we are delayed for any reason after a party, we should beverage. Adults should impound all alcoholic beverages brought to

DRIVING

1. Parental consent for a driving privilege should be based on (1) possession of a driver's license and (2) a healthy attitude regarding the rights and welfare of others.

2. We should accept the responsibility, along with our parents, of keeping our car in safe operating condition.

3. Use of the family car for a date should be sensibly discussed by both parties involved.

4. As a safety factor, we should avoid over-crowding a car since the operator of the vehicle is held legally responsible and as passengers we are equally responsible.

5. Everyone should be aware of the responsibility in driving a car. Common sense should be our guide.

DRINKING

1. California State Laws say that no one has the right to serve any alcoholic beverage to teenagers. The adult who does so may be charged criminally and is directly responsible for any of the serious consequences which may result. It is illegal for any person under 21 to purchase, attempt to purchase or possess any alcoholic beverage. Adults should impond all alcoholic beverages brought to a party and notify the parents of the offender. We should discourage drinking by teenagers.

2. It is not a disgrace to decline an alcoholic drink. Anyone has the right and the obligation to make this decision for himself.

3. It is foolhardy to ride with an intoxicated driver.

SMOKING

1. The Penal Code of Contra Costa County States: "Every person, firm, or corporation which sells or gives or in any way furnishes to another person who is under the age of 18, any tobacco, cigarettes, or cigarette papers or any other preparation of tobacco is guilty of a misdemeanor. Subject to $25 for first offense or 60 days in jail."

2. Besides the law, we are (or should be) aware of the danger to our health that cigarettes produce.

3. Because of the facts above, we should try to discourage smoking. The final decision is up to us and our parents.

THE OBSERVATION OF THIS CODE WILL IMPROVE UNFAVORABLE AND UNJUSTIFIED REPUTATION ALL TEENAGERS HAVE GAINED THROUGH THE CARELESSNESS OF A VERY FEW.

Teen Dance Is Tonight After Game

Leaders of Publicity Jam Sun Meeting

About 100 area publicity chairmen attended The Sun's Publicity Night Tuesday at the Acalanes High School cafeteria.

Short, informal talks were given by Sun Publisher Herman Silverman, Assocaite Editor Dick Osborne and Editors Norman Colby, Bob Rapida and Larry Glazier.

Their subject matter included public relations in general, the question, "Why Doesn't My Release Get Into the Paper?" deadlines, forms for releases and how to prepare them, problems in using the telephone and "The Photo Angle."

An hour of enthusiastic questions and answers followed.

Booklets and reference material on publicity were distributed to each member of the audience.

A publicity chairman suggested during the question and answer period that The Sun present such a meeting each year. Publisher Silverman said his staff is considering this.

Condon Blasts DA For Hiring Cox In Cooper Trial

Robert L. Condon, attorney for Charles F. Cooper, Richmond labor leader, today expressed amazement that District Attorney John Nejedly employed private counsel to prosecute Cooper.

Nejedly has announced that he has engaged James E. Cox, of the law firm of Tinning and DeLap as a special prosecutor.

"NEJEDLY HAS more than fifteen deputies and, I suppose, the attorney general's office has more than 100 deputies," Condon said.

"The chameleon-like Nejedly cannot make up his mind. He has publicly announced that Chief Deputy District Attorney David J. Levy, who has handled the case at all stages up until now, would remain in the office for the express purpose of handling the prosecution of Cooper.

"Levy is resigning effective November 14, which is, of course, well after the time the Cooper trial will be concluded.

"Then apparently Levy decided he wouldn't touch the matter. Next Nejedly announced he was going to have a special prosecutor brought in from the attorney general's office, and even named the deputy attorney general who would handle the prosecution. Apparently the attorney general's office has backed off," Condon opined.

"Now we read that the county taxpayers, despite the dozens of prosecutors available to the district attorney, will be required to pay the fees of a private practationer from one of the biggest law firms in northern California.

"It is, of course, by no means a coincidence that in nearly all legal actions in which Cooper's labor organization has been a party the firm of Tinning and DeLap invariably is the counsel for the employers involved in disputes with the union," Condon claimed.

"I cannot conceive of a more disgraceful waste of the people's money," Condon added.

"Nejedly campaigned on the promise of being a full time district attorney with no outside private business and informed the public that would be his policy for the people on his staff. In the first important case in which he personally is involved, he runs to outside attorneys for help," Condon charged.

Condon also added that this is perfectly consistent with Nejedly's "mysterious and inexplicable role" in the recent grand jury investigations of vice and corruption.

"At first Nejedly was issuing blasts at the sheriff's office, accusing the sheriff of malfeasance," Condon declared.

"Nejedly issued a statement that he had asked the attorney general's office to investigate vice conditions in Contra Costa County.

Three Killed In Crashes; Many Hurt

Contra Costa suffered one of the worst series of traffic fatalities during the past week.

Three fatal accidents marred the county's traffic record, and according to the California Highway Patrol, drivers were involved in more minor accidents over one weekend than in the past year.

FRED J. NEWMAN, 29, of Oakland, was dead on arrival at Martinez Hospital Saturday evening following an accident on Camino Diablo, two miles west of Byron.

Joseph A. Meredith, 50, of Berkeley, was driving east on Camino Diablo when his car went off the road into the road bank and overturned several times. He and his two passengers were thrown out of the vehicle.

Ralph Rust, 35, of Oakland, is in serious condition at the County Hospital. Meredith has been transferred to Herrick Memorial Hospital in Berkeley. CHP officers say the accident is under investigation.

Sunday at 3 p.m., Ossian E. Carr, 83, of Oakland, collided with the vehicle driven by Sherman L. McFarland, 57, of Berkeley, at the intersection of Taylor Boulevard and Withers Avenue, Pleasant Hill.

CARR'S WIFE, Norah, 79, died at Kaiser Hospital, Walnut Creek, immediately after the accident.

McFarland and his wife, Iola, 43, were treated and released at the hospital.

Investigation of the accident will be submitted to the district attorney's office.

A third fatality occurred at Camino Pablo, Orinda, at 1:50 a.m. Sunday. Wilma E. Jorgensen, 33, of Richmond, was northbound on Camino Pablo when her car went down an embankment, through a chain fence and into a drainage ditch culvert. She was killed instantly.

IN MINOR accidents, Warren I. Norton, 21, 318 North Fair Oaks, Sunnyvale, lost control of his car when a wasp flew in the window. His 19-year-old wife, Wanda, fell out onto a road bank and was bruised.

In an accident near the Lafayette bypass a small car driven by Kenneth R. Krey, 37, of 2072 Norris Road, Walnut Creek, would not respond to steering and rolled over a sloping incline.

Minor injuries were suffered by Dr. Krey and his passenger, his daughter, Barbara, 9; son Russell, 12, and Shirley Ausburn, 33, of 2117 Stewart Avenue, Walnut Creek.

They were treated at Kaiser Hospital, Walnut Creek.

Litter Picker Finds $10 Bill Along Highway

Two miles of the Walnut Creek freeway gave up 127 gunnysacks full of litter Sunday afternoon and at least one of the 55 volunteers in the two-hour cleanup drive was compensated for his effort.

Charles Olson, chairman of the East Contra Costa Oil Information Committee, picked up a rain-soaked $10 bill during the cleanup between the Martinez and Oak Park Boulevard turnoffs.

In the cleanup campaign were members of the Contra Costa Highway Cleanup Committee, the Sierra Club, the oil information committee and the Pleasant Hill Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Supervisors W. G. Buchanan, Melvin F. Nielsen and James P. Kenny, District Attorney John Nejedly, Sheriff Walter Young and Superintendent of Schools Floyd Marchus put in their two hour stint along with other volunteers.

The drive was supervised by R. D. "Scotty" Broatch of the county public works department who operated one of two county trucks used to haul away the collected debris.

The volunteers had been provided with sacks, nail studded sticks, pitchforks and shovels.

Buchanan, who heads the cleanup committee, said the drive was successful, particularly in publicizing the problem of litter along the county's more than 1000 miles of roadways. He urged that similar drives be staged by community groups in the interest of highway beautification.

Bike Rodeo Planned by Larkey PTA

Mrs. William McLaughlin, a member of the Safety Committee of Larkey School P-TA, is in charge of the "Bike Rodeo," next Thursday and Friday.

Girl Scout Troop 93, Diablo Valley Council, will be given a written bicycle safety quiz presented by the California Highway Safety Patrol.

The children will be given booklets to take home a week before for study.

Those who succeed in passing the test will receive a special Safety Card.

These cards and booklets are sanctioned by the Calfornia State Automobile Association. Officer Harry Day of the Walnut Creek Police Department will inspect the bicycles.

Ribbons will be awarded to the top three in the two divisions taking the tests.

Those divisions consist of one group of third and fourth graders, and the other group is fifth and sixth graders.

They will be graded on skill, with a possible score of 50, and on a written test, with a possible score of 100.

Other older children in the area may attend and participate in the tests. However, they are not eligible for the ribbon awards.

Wins, 19-0, in Flag Football

Flag Football scores announced by Joe McElroy, general supervisor, Recreation Department, show Walnut Creek schools trailing their opponents, with the exception of an outstanding win by Parkmead's seventh grade grade league over Walnut Creek Christian Academy, 19 to 0.

Pete Breuleux's defensive action was a big boost. Despite the fine defensive action of Mike Rahn, A team, Walnut Creek school, and Steve Hair and Randy Marrs of the B team, Walnut Creek seventh grade lost 6-0, 12-6 in two games with Pleasant Hill.

Other scores: Rodeo 12, Parkmead 6; Walnut Creek B team 0, Pleasant Hill 0; Walnut Creek A team 0, Pleasant Hill 27.

Stanford Man Explains School District Survey

"Our job is not to make ourselves look good, but to put the board of trustees in a position to do a better job," Dr. James MacConnell of the Stanford University Planning Laboratory told members of the Citizens Advisory Committee last week.

MacConnell referred to the $7500 survey which Jack Davis has begun for the district under the direction of MacConnell and Dr. William Odell of the laboratory. Davis is a candidate for a doctor's degree and a former school district superintendent.

The survey, MacConnell explained, is not directed to general philosophy of education in the district, but is concerned primarily with the district's "physical plant."

HE SAID, "We could spend the entire time studying curriculum, and get the people excited, but this wouldn't accomplish much."

The survey will continue until July, but the preliminary results of a population growth study and evaluation of proper locations for new school buildings will be ready by January.

MacConnell admitted that the study will provide information by which the district residents can evaluate proposals for a bond issue to finance new construction in the district.

He would not say at this stage of the survey whether he believes a bond issue is necessary for the district, but he commented, "School districts must move forward. It is important to get the facts before the public."

McCONNELL cited several other school districts which are also being studied by the planning laboratory.

Of Los Altos School District, he said, "They waited, and now they are in a real mess.

"The people instead of acting said, 'We are for education but we wonder if this is the right thing to do' (financing of new construction.)"

He said the Arden-Carmichael School District in the suburbs of Sacramento is locating more than one hundred new school sites.

AND THE James Lick High School District is planning to build 18 new high schools in 12 years. "They are planning for saturation," McConnell said.

He continued that in the old days a district tried to buy land needed for new sites, but sky-rocketing prices changed the procedure to condemnation by the district attorney.

In other areas, people would object to selling their land, saying they would never use it for other than the present use, but after the district relented, the land would then be sold for subdivisions.

The study will also include recommendations on the use of "junior highs" in the district. MacConnell said, "The district has it. But for some reason, they don't want to call it that."

DAVIS POPULATION projection studies will cover the next five years, and will be based on the ratios of population increase during the past nine years, comparing each year with the preceding year, with a logarithm technique. And a similar method will be used comparing grade levels, he said.

The Walnut Creek district growth has been "A little behind what we predicted in our earlier studies for the district, but this was due to the recession, and it will pick up, and equal the original predications in the future, he said.

As for the new school sites, the locations of present and future schools in neighboring school districts will be taken into account.

MacConnell discussed the relationship between this survey and the proposed county-wide school site survey, for which the County Supervisors have appropriated a token expenditure, but not enough to begin work.

HE SAID, "If the county does it, projections show it would save about $51 millions from now to the time of saturation."

The county-wide survey would cost about $35,000, and proposals have been for the county to buy sites, and sell them "at cost" to the districts when they are needed in the future.

Sleepy Hollow Matter Delayed By Supervisors

With exclusion requests totaling about 40 per cent of the area proposed for incorporation, the public hearing on the Sleepy Hollow city proposal was continued by the County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors were informed Tuesday that the county assessor's office has already received exclusion requests representing proposed City of Sleepy Hollow.

IF OWNERS representing $97,-$77,230 of the land value of the 810 of the land value in the area request exclusion, the incorporation proposal will automatically die and there will be no election.

The total land value of the area proposed for incorporation is $195,620, and 51 per cent requested for exclusion kills the plan.

To date, the exclusions represent slightly less than 40 per cent of the total.

THE SUPERVISORS put the matter over for two weeks, until November 3 at 10 a.m., and further requests for exclusion will be received by county officials until that time.

Proponents of the incorporation maintained that delays will prevent the holding of an election prior to February 1, meaning that the city will lose a portion of state subventions which otherwise be funneled to the muncipality if incorporated.

Garden Club Award To Be Presented

Presentation of the Richfield Oil Company's civic project award to the Orinda Garden Club will be made at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, November 14, it was announced this week.

The garden club was named winner of the award last May for the landscaping of the new Orinda Library grounds and its work with the Orinda Beautification Committee.

A 10 to 15-foot magnolia tree will be planted at the library site and a redwood plaque, commemorating the presentation, will be placed at the bottom of the tree.

The presentation has been planned so that it ties in with the celebration of the new library's first anniversary.

In addition to a representative of the oil company, those taking part in the ceremony will include members of the club's project committee.

THE COMMITTEE members were Perc S. Brown, Mrs. Jeffress Rodwell, Mrs. Thornton Grimes, Mrs. Woodburn Lamb, Mrs. Roger Stark and Mrs. Paul Pollaczek.

The garden club will meet at the Orinda Country Club at 10 a.m. Tuesday for its regular monthly meeting and Mrs. Katherine Eubank will speak on Christmas and Thanksgiving decorations.

Newton Drury will address the club at its November meeting, November 24, on "What Is Happening to the California Landscape."

Ground Broken For Lutheran Church Building

An impressive groundbreaking service was conducted on the grounds of Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 1035 Carol Lane in conjunction with the second service last Sunday morning.

Taking part in the service were Robert Stevens, president of the congregation; Abbott Roberts, chairman of the building committee; Del Loewe, Sunday school superintendent; Mrs. Alice Snekvik, president of the Women's Missionary Federation; Charles Green, president of the Senior Luther League; Mrs. Pat Tveitmoe, president of the Mother's Club; and the pastor, Merle O. Tollefson.

This groundbreaking culminates three years of planning to provide much needed facilities for the parish program. This is the third stage in the proposed master plan of the church.

The new construction will include a large, multi-purpose building which will temporarily serve as a worship center and provide for the social activities of the parish.

In addition, the new construction will provide office space, a large kitchen, wash rooms a mother's room and storage area.

THE PRESENT building will be remodeled for use as an educational unit. This remodeling will provide two large assemblies, eight new class rooms and a lounge room.

Construction of the $125,000 project will be started immediately by the Romley Construction Company. The completion date is expected to be June 15.

This structure will be of contemporary style, designed by Ratcliff and Ratcliff of Berkeley. The structure will feature four exposed aggregate concrete columns at each corner.

THE WALLS WILL be a combination of wood, asbestos board and glass. The building will seek to retain the original textures of the various materials.

An interesting feature of the roof will be large corner skylights and a center skylight, providing a light, airy feeling within the room.

The chancel will feature a free standing altar with a large cross rising out of it. The communion rail will be a full circle emphasizing the fellowship of the members around the altar and cross.

Of Tempests in Teapot And Our Civil Service . . .

The Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors is to be commended and congratulated in its efforts to place county department heads under direct board control and out of the jurisdiction of civil service.

Now, the civil service problem in Martinez may seem far removed from your comfortable living room, but in all probability it determines, to a great extent, just what you have in that living room.

In short, when the costs of county government rise, your taxes rise. And when your taxes are higher, it leaves just that much less of the old pay check for the things you work hard for and want.

THEREFORE, THIS move on the part of the board, which took a great deal of courage, is to be commended, because it affects each of us.

Certainly the key men in each department should be answerable to the board. Therefore, the board should go through with this.

Let's briefly mention the sheriff's office in connection with this problem.

There is no question but that the sheriff should have a confidential aide outside the ranks of civil service—this is the case in every other major county in the state.

With reference to the Rathke problem, as indicated below, it is obvious that there is a great weakness in our present structure. There should be a way for the sheriff to achieve his confidential aide.

BUT IF MRS. RATHKE is to be removed from office, it should not be for reasons of political reprisal, but for cause. If there is a completely incompatible situation in any office, there should be a way that a person can be transferred to some other department without losing status.

Obviously Sheriff Young has a problem. Nevertheless, the Attorney General is right when he asks the Grand Jury to meet on the problem, because certainly there should be no reprisal firing . . . especially after the sheriff urged his personnel to go to the grand jury and law enforcement agencies if they were aware of law enforcement problems in the county.

Printed below is an editorial which appeared in a recent edition of the Brentwood News, and which we feel expresses the whole problem very clearly. It was written by Gentry Durham, the publisher of that paper.

It is entitled The Fifth Estate and is as follows:

The focus of interest stirred up by the recent vice investigations in Contra Costa county has now swung completely from the real issue (how the operators were able to set up shop in the county) to a battle of personalities within the sheriff's office.

Mrs. Ruth Rathke who was one of the more prominent figures in several controversies involving former Sheriff Harry Brown whom she served as confidential aide, continues to enjoy considerable publicity because of something she did or didn't do during the investigation of current sheriff, Walter Young — so far it is not clear exactly what the problem is except it is obvious Mrs. Rathke and the sheriff don't get along so well.

IT IS A FACT that Young first demoted Mrs. Rathke from chief of the civil division to the position of telephone operator although she retained the salary of the former post because of her civil service status. It also is a fact that Mrs. Rathke petitioned to be restored to her former position, charging her demotion was an act of retribution by the sheriff because of her activities during the vice investigation.

It also is a fact that the sheriff subsequently discharged her, making formal charges of insubordination, conduct unbecoming an employee in public service and willful violation of the civil service law.

Actualy this is all a tempest in a teapot, hardly worthy of notice except that it demontstrates a major weakness in the civil service organizations on all levels of government which is important because in the long run it affects everyone by increasing the cost of government and decreasing efficiency.

THE CORE OF THE matter is this, it is almost impossible to get a civil service employee off a city, county, state or federal payroll if that employee knows the ropes of civil service law and uses them. The only way is death of the employee.

Obviously this inability to discharge an employee automatically reduces the disciplinary power of the employer, which in turn hamstrings efforts to increase production or achieve greater efficiency among employees who don't have to be concerned with pleasing the boss so long as they remain technically within the wording of the civil service law.

Even in a rather slack time this tends to give the impression that there is more work to be done than there are people to do it, and leads to addition of still more civil service employees — rather like the snowball rolling downhill, following the course of east resistance and growing larger with every turn.

The Rathke-Young case, regardless of which side is right or wrong, clearly demonstrates this circumstance of the civil service untouchabes. In private business a person demoted would not continue to get the salary of the higher job, but would be paid for what actually is being done. Nor would a protest or argument over the demotion or ouster become a matter to be aired in public and confused by one-sided statements.

Civil service was designed to correct the evils of spoils politics and attract to government work people of higher caliber interested in careers that did not have to depend upon who won the next election. To a great extent civil service has been successful in this respect, but in the process it has been allowed to become almost as great a threat in its own right as was the spoils system.

WITH DUE RESPECT to all those civil service employees who work hard at their jobs and strive for efficiency and for the good of their employer (just as they would in private employment) it has become painfully obvious that there are those within the army of civil service workers who use every advantage under the law and press for still more without delivering a fair return.

Through their very numbers, their impact on the national economy and their political influence through ever-improving organization they are becoming a class and a power unto themselves, related to the remainder of society but beyond its control.

It could be said that civil service people are becoming the fifth estate.

However, the classic three estates (clergy, noble and commons) and even the so-called fourth estate (the press) have long since found they are all subject to the will and best interest of the commons (the people) in the final analysis.

There must be a way to so control the fifth estate while still protecting its rights.

2-Year-Olds Are Risky

By NORMAN COLBY

Two year old boys have been voted most likely to get into some sort of jam, and the emergency will probably happen at home.

He will most likely go to the hospital with some sort of abrasion, but he very well might have a contusion, fracture or puncture wound.

Or maybe he swallowed some poison, was bitten by a dog, sprained his ankle, cracked his noggin against something or stepped on a nail.

THE POSSIBILITIES are infinite, indicates a report by the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association on injuries to children under 15 years of age.

Figures show that the above mentioned tragedies have been frequent from January to August, and are part of the home scene each and every year.

The typical two year old boy may also be hit by hot liquid, get caught in the door, fall down some stairs, get burned in a fire or explosion, get shot somehow while someone handles firearms, gets hit by a car, swallow something undigestable, or get burned.

"Other or unknown" causes which bring Johnny to the hospital are numbered in the several thousands alone.

IF THE TWO-YEAR old is a girl, chances are just over half as good that her parents' fears will be realized.

Or, if either John or Jeanie are under one year old, their risks are cut to one third.

And once that "dangerous two" period is passed, the risks slowly diminish.

Kaiser Hospital gets more children accident cases per year than any other Contra Costa hospital, and Kaiser is second only to Fairmont Hospital, Hayward, in both Contra Costa and Alameda Counties, the report says.

During the January to August period, Walnut Creek area had 619 child cases, compared to 372 in Pleasant Hill, 253 in Lafayette, 164 in Orinda and three in Diablo.

Temples (ear pieces) wider than one-half inch and extending below the center of the lenses were termed hazardous and are prohibited for use by operators of motor vehicles under Section 23120, added to the California Vehicle Code at the recent session of the legislature and effective September 18, 1959. To avoid "blinder" effect on vital lateral driver vision of the glasses at right, motorists' vision experts of the California Optometric Association have joined the CHP in recommending narrow temple style shown on the left.

The same old pumpkins NOT the same old eyes

By MARIE MONAHAN

A BIG wide wonderful morning & we are finally settled down with the dog, the birds & the typewriter.

THEY all look bigger than they EVER looked before.

This is because we have recovered our new prescription glasses.

We decided to pay a call on the Optometrist recently. After years of strain, our old Baby Blues were playing tricks on us.

One look at the black & white of the piano keys, or the kitchen stove, sent us into a nosedive. (The kitchen stove is enough to make ANYONE faint — especially after our newest CUB has cooked his first breakfast or the Young Lady has turned the pancakes on the griddle — & missed!

We read in the worst light, too. By candlelight, by Coleman & flashlights in the summer, by twilight in the Fall. Even by the light of the moon. Gad, how romantic!

Our tired 20/20's are NOT what they used to be!

THE EYEMAN bowed us into his office, asked a few questions & sat us down to play visual games for an hour & a half. Pencils, puzzles, circles & stars.

It was fun! Like Bingo, Monopoly & Darts all rolled into one!

The big refractor machine fitted up to our face made us feel like the whole RKO Pathe News staff.

Glasses prescribed, we thought "NOW we shall have a pair of those heavy black frames — the kind that will make us look intellectual." So we said brightly — "We'd like a pair of those black frames, please!"

Mais Non! The Doc threw up his hands.

He said, instead, he would give our Norske nose a Grecian look. Then HE picked out the frames.

We now have two pairs of glasses to keep track of.

THE READING pair are kept in a blue case. That is, they are supposed to be kept in a blue case — when we aren't WEARING them. But we keep them any old place. On top of the refrigerator. Or in the fruitbowl. It is MADDENING!

It is the same way with our OTHER glasses. They are prettier of bronze plastic & are for the "Opera." They are really for the movies, TV & night-driving, but Opera is the toney description used nowadays in smarter eye-glass salons.

The only trouble is that when we HAVE to do some night-driving, we CAN'T find our Opera glasses.

We can't even find our CAR KEYS!

It is the same when we settle down with the evening paper. Then we can't find our READING glasses.

It's a revelation wearing our new glasses to the store.

Such BIG apples! What GIANT pears! The pumpkins are as big as Cinderella's coach! But we tip our glasses forward & sneak a peek with the Old Eyes & they're NO different at all. Just the same old pumpkins!

SAME with the Steaks. The sirloin looks Tremendous! What a buy!

But looking out from over the glass rims, ah-hah! Just another piece of meat — at $1.29 a pound. (NOW we can read the price labels!)

Well, might as well catch up on last night's news. We finally found our reading glasses . . . & wouldn't you know it?

They were in between the pages of the Cook Book.

Letters to The Editor

Dear Editor:

Reference to the treatment presently being accorded Sheriff Young I wish to raise my voice in his behalf.

Recently your paper published an item that there were rumors of a recall. After that another publication carried an item that Young faced a contempt act.

As you well know, the legal definition of contempt is "a willful disregard or disobedience of public authority." How, when, and what time was Sheriff Young disregarded or disobeyed public authority?

It appears to me that he has undertaken—and successfully—all the reforms which the Grand Jury recommended and I recall reading in the Press just recently that members of the Atty. General's Staff remarked that Contra Costa was one of the cleanest counties in the state.

AFTER THAT STATEMENT comes the aftermath. Now he faces contempt, or worse than that, dismissal from office.

Why, in Heaven's name, didn't the Atty. Gen., when he met with Mr. Condon and his client also meet and talk with Mr. Gordon and his client, Sheriff Young?

There's always two sides to every story. Were that not true we would have no need for attorneys or courts. It is apparent that Mr. Mosk heard only one side of the story.

As for vice, of course there's some in this county. There's vice in every county.

AS THE OLD saying goes Mr. Editor, you can legislate against it but it will never become unpopular.

It is apparent however that the Sheriff's office is cleaning it up else we would not have the statement from the Atty. General's office that Contra Costa is one of the cleanest counties in the state.

Walter Young has only been in office for eight months and it is a well known fact that during that entire period he has been working against great odds at the expense of great heart-break.

Talent is something we have generally to seek far to find but I feel quite certain that, given an opportunity, his ability will be recognized.

Certainly he should have the right to fire anyone on his staff who renders disservice and that means of course that civil service regulations should be overhauled from A to Z.

I know Walt Young and I am keenly aware of his unusual combination of enthusiasm, intelligence, devotion to duty and shrewd common sense.

Let us go back a few years and make a comparison between him and his predecessors. Is not the county cleaner now than during those years? "Let us leave him be" and thank the Good Lord that we have him.

HAMILTON BOND.

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank you for the story telling about the St. Mary's College placement bureau. I know I speak for the students when thanking you for this additional aid.

CUB TO SCOUT

Dear Editor:

To face squarely the issue raised in your editorial last week, let me say that perhaps you yourself have failed your son.

Perhaps, too, you have failed to grasp the fact that 99.44 per cent of Boy Scout officials are volunteers, parents, dads and mothers.

Confronted as we are with the increasing complexities of today's modern living, we, all of us, are prone to take the easy way out of community obligations.

THE BOY SCOUT program is a way of life. When it works it does so because the parents, both Father and Mother, devote intelligent, careful coniderations to planning the year-round program so that it will work.

A good unit in scouting is only as good as the parent participation guides it.

Some of the finest units in the district are located in Lafayette where the program is attaining its goal. In these units, the transition from Cubbing to Scouting, and Scouting to Exploring, does not falter.

I speak as a scout official, a volunteer.

AS AN institutional representative for three Orinda Cub Packs for a four year period and as a member of the Meridian District Advancement Committee, I am concerned with all three steps of the Scouting program.

Let me repeat, Scouting is a way of life. Its goal is the building of character and training in leadership which is only available through Scouting.

This character building and leadership training are not fully accomplished in our schools. The necessary leadership to attain these desirable goals must come from the boys' parents. What would your official attitude be, Sir, if your son told you he was tired of school or church?

Young children, of your son's age, have to be led into the things that intelligent parents realize are for their best benefit and it is up to you and the other parents, by wise persuation, to lead these children into a well-planned program which will accomplish your desires.

SINCE YOUR question pertains to Cubbing, let's understand that Scouting is a ten year program.

Too many parents fail to understand that they are personally responsible if the program falls short of its goal. If they permit themselves to lose interest, they can be sure their children too will lose interest.

The parents, both mother and father, are vital to the program. Before the boy is ready for Cubbing, the parents look at Scouting and decide that they want its benefits for their children.

THE FIRST three years, the mother and the family, in Cubbing, are the leaders. The next four years, from 11 to 15, the father takes over and in Exploring, a community group of technical experts provides a program which is designed for "teen-age" interest.

When you were a Boy Scout, there must have been men devoting themselves to making the program work. There are still men, volunteers, in this community making the program work.

If it fails, it is because some dad missed the boat. You will have to look to your own heart, mind and dedication for the answer to the question you raised.

Men and women over the world have found the answer as Scouting is not a local program but of international scope.

RAWLINGS S. W. SIMON

Dear Editor:

I was a Cub Scout Den Mother for three years, and to me it was three very rewarding years. The eight boys in my den went on to Webelos and directly into Boy Scouts. In time each of them has been a patrol leader, and all of them have reached the rank of Star Scout or better. One is now a candidate for Eagle Scout.

As you know, the Cub Scout program is as effective as the parents make it. Cub Scouting is for the entire famliy. If parents face it with the attitude that it is just something to be endured and "let's get it over with in a hurry" then the boys get the same attitude.

suming for the mothers, but what better way to spend your time than in helping to develop future leaders.

I grant you there are some boys who are not interested in going on into Boy Scouts — it doesn't appeal to certain types of boys, but why give up the entire program because of this? There are also children who do not finish high school because they don't like school.

Shall we by reason of this cease to make it mandatory that they attend school until they reach a certain age?

I don't know how closely you have been associated with Scouting. If you have ever observed a troop of Boy Scouts on a camping trip, or any of their activities, you can readny spot those who have been "reared in Scouting" from Cubs on up. Instead of criticizing the Cub program, why not take the attitude that it's a good thing for our children, and more power to those who are willing to devote their time to it.

(My husband says I'm wasting my time writing you—that you won't print my letter.)

Today We Have Answers To the Scout Problem

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

Two weeks ago I became courageous (or foolish) and wrote about Cubs and Boy Scouts. I asked the questions: Why don't more Cubs become Boy Scouts? Does Cub Scouting discourage many boys from continuing into Boy Scouts?

I readily admitted that my experience was limited to my neighborhood. In two Cub dens only one boy has gone into Boy Scouts. I admitted this might be a local problem, although I know of similar cases in other areas.

This problem is presented in good faith. I love Scouting and am sad because so many boys are missing the wonderful opportunities offered in Boy Scouts.

What is the answer?

I do not contend that Cubbing should be discontinued. I do believe that something is lacking. Or perhaps not; perhaps the program is too complete, too long. I don't know. But I do know that after three years of Cubs, too many boys drop out.

Since the column was printed, I've had varied reactions. About 12 people have called or stopped me on the street and said they have had similar experiences. Several Scout leaders declared they agreed—Cubbing did stop some boys from joining Scouts.

Several people became angry, contending that I had attacked the entire Scout movement.

Here is an answer

Here on this page you'll find some letters-to-the-editor on the subject. Last Friday John Youmans handed me an answer to the questions. John, who lives in our area, is a very capable director of training, Mt. Diablo Council, Boy Scouts of America. I must agree that good leadership in Cubs would probably solve the problem. Can "good leadership" be obtained for so many Cubs for such a long period of time?

Here is John's answer:

The question you have posed about Cub Scouting is good for us, in that it is causing a few people to sit up and take notice. Sometimes we become too complacent about Scouting, just as we sometimes become complacent about democracy and freedom of worship and freedom of the press in this great America of ours.

I wish you could have been present at a court of honor held at the Stanley School the night after your editorial was printed. Here, in an atmosphere of 100 per cent parent-interest participation, seven new Tenderfoot Scouts were inducted into the troop — all of them coming into a new experience after three glorious years in their Cub Pack.

An outstanding record

And a few minutes later, after some 100 merit badges and badges of rank had been awarded to the other members of the troop, here were nine high school boys in new Explorer uniforms being inducted into the Explorer Post, upon graduation from the Troop.

Their advisor told me today that well over 90 per cent of the boys in the post had been Cubs. A group of the parents organized the pack about nine years ago; most of that group are now college freshmen, but are still registered in the Explorer Post, and attend meetings whenever they can.

Further, all boys in the troop, with exception of three, have gone through three years of Cubs — and all the dads are active, more or less, on the troop committee. Most of them attend the regular monthly committee meeting, and carry out their assigned responsibilities. Twenty-seven attended committee meeting this week.

It is a sad fact, one which we have been combatting for several years, that the turn-over in many packs is so great that at any one time as many as half or more of our Cubs are attending den meetings every week, and pack meetings once a month, under supervision of adults who don't know the fundamentals of the program they are supposedly carrying out.

You have intimated that your boys have had able, and not-so-able den mothers. How fortunate if they had had only one or two capable, trained den mothers, each, in their three years of Cubs.

Some questions

How few packs have men who accept their responsibilities as Cubmaster or pack committee chairman sufficiently to see that the den mothers are informed about the training opportunities which are periodically available and conducted by volunteer leadership training committees of the district or council!

How many pack chairmen attended the Cub Leaders' Pow Wow at Diablo Valley College last Saturday? How many have organized their leaders, men and women, so that they may have the opportunity to learn something more about games, ceremonies, skits, stunts, songs, pack administration and crafts, by attending these courses?

Three years ago, Meridian District had 2,268 Cubs. As of this August 31 there were 1,565 Boy Scouts in the same area. This is nearly seven of every ten boys who were Cubs three years ago. For Mt. Diablo Council as a whole, the percentage is slightly higher; of 11,380 Cubs in 1956, there are now 8,015 Boy Scouts.

And this is after only two-thirds of the year has gone by. By the end of December, the number and percentage will be much higher, for many boys join at this time of year, after school opens.

Not enough troops?

One reason boys don't join troops is because they are not invited. There are more boys in Cubs in this district than there are Boy Scouts: 2364 Cubs in 34 packs; 1565 Boy Scouts in 31 troops. The normal pack has from 40 to about 60 boys; the average troop less than 30. Sure, some troops have vacancies, but many of them are more than full, and forced to limit their admission of new boys.

There's a good, active troop which I helped organize a few years ago from Webelos Den in one of the large packs. All of the dads of those first 12 boys became members of the troop committee, or Scoutmaster or assistants.

These men wanted the character-building and citizenship training experiences of Scouting for their boys in the second phase of Scouting, — instead of quitting at the end of the first phase, Cub Scouting, when the boy became 11.

Parents need to understand that Scouting is a program for the boy from eight to manhood, and that there is a place for parents in making Scouting's adventure and thrills worthwhile for their sons. There's a place for mothers' auxiliaries, and for Patrol Dads in the Scout Troop, just as there was a need for family cooperation in Cub Scouting.

What makes Johnny achieve?

Johnny needs an encouraging pat on the back to achieve his Second Class or First Class, just as much as he did to get his Wolf or Bear or Lion.

And his achievement of Eagle rank, pinnacle that it is, requires just as much parent interest and participation, though of a different kind perhaps, as it took to get him through his Webelos requirements.

How many Cubs have the privilege of belonging to a Webelos Den, under a top-flight assistant Cubmaster, before they go into a troop? It's part of the program!

But about your contention that three years is too long for a boy to be in Cubs: under nothing but crafts, I agree.

Talk about crafts . . .

Sure, many of the achievements and electives call for crafts, but in developing boys these are there for a purpose. They are psyhcologically and educationally sound. And each year's requirements are different from the year's before. Only untrained leaders make them the same.

Cubs who have followed the program as it is intended become enthusiastic Boy Scouts — and the troop the boy goes into had better be a good one! If there isn't one available, or if the logical one is filled up, parents who are interested can easily get one going, and the satisfaction one sees from good clean, healthy boys doing something worthwhile, leading to fine men of character, good citizens, is the real pay-off.

JOHN S. YOUMANS,

On The Lighter Side

By CAROL HODGES

The Cardinal Unit of the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center has held its FIRST dance and a happier group will be hard to find for there is no doubt of the success of the event.

The Elks' Club in Walnut Creek was decorated in a fall theme with lovely arrangements made of weeds, mind you, artistically placed by the decorating committee headed by Ginny Parry of Walnut Creek.

Ginny is in her own right, a talented artist and what she can do with "nature's own" is amazing. Before hand, Gay Lindh of Lafayette scoured San Francisco for miniature wicker baskets which were filled with guilded twigs and berries, making most attractive table centerpieces, and Pat Matthes was seen roaming the hills in search of something "interesting" and coming home with a LOADED station wagon.

Also adding their own special touch to the thistles were Fran Thiele, Joyce Marino and Lynn Dini of Walnut Creek. Dotty Jackson and Lynn Dini kept the tables supplied with potato chips and dips while "gay" Gay Lindh passed the popcorn, enjoying every minute of it!

Gloria Schultz, looking like she stepped out of Vogue, added much to the decorations while collecting tickets. Over-all chairman, Dorris Daly and husband Paul of Lafayette with their guests Bud and Elaine Berggren, Edward and Eleanor Bellegarde, Kelton and Ruth Cummings, Alice and Ken Smetts, the Paul Walters, Bill and Betty McCarroll and the Al Schusters were making the MOST of the evening; the Howard Thieles of Walnut Creek with friends, the Russ and Charles Gages, seen laughing over old times . . . . Bill and Joyce Thomas, Judy and Vince Diers, Nancy and Ray Cassani of Walnut Creek wit ha group from Oakland, keeping the combo busy on the dance floor.

The Werner Petersens, David Woods', Frank Cooks, Dick Conklins, Howard Burks, Jack and Jean Hill, Darrell and Billie Hall were entertained by the Carl Marinos of Walnut Creek prior to the dance and the Rei Westlyes, the Bud Emorys and Karl Matthes of Lafayette enjoyed a progressive dinner before the dance.

The Dan Arenas also of Lafayette gave a delightful dinner party beforehand, for eight. Noted too were the Pat Pattersons of Berkeley and the Jack Canhams of Orinda resting at their table after a "fast one" on the floor with Bill Danska also of Orinda, rendering "Down by the Old Mill Stream" and his B. W. Winnie, plugging her ears!

All in all, 'twas a ball and calls for an encore!

The Hummingbird Unit has scored again with its annual fashion show! The Orinda Country Club was the setting on this lovely WARM day for the "Malihini Fashions." Apparently everything from hats to sweaters will be sporting a little fur trim and lots of color will be worn this fall.

Vivid blues and reds, and one new color especially appealing is green — I am told they call it "dirty" green. It is somewhat like the color of the bay on a foggy day! Very pretty.

For entertainment, expert hula and Oriental dances by Marge Bronson and the Kamaainas — these following the most UNUSUAL and delectable luncheon. The main entree, which was new to me, consisted of boned chicken thighs stuffed with an almond and apple dressing with a berry jam glaze, and was it MARVELOUS!

The Mt. Diablo Therapy Center has welcomed a new bird to their "tree" — a Nightingale this time. The unit will be mainly a service group; transporting patients, office work and attending to many other details of the organization. The majority of the "Nightingales" live on the grounds of the Contra Costa Country Club, a mere stones throw from the Center, which makes it ALL very convenient.

Alice Price has been elected to be the first president, Marcella Rhodes, vice president, Julianne Davis, treasurer, Marie Wilkins, recording secretary and Clara Netherby, corresponding secretary.

Helen Jean Pierce will take over the duties of publicity chairman; ways and means chairman, Roberta Gardiner; service committee chairman will be Florence Billings and Ethel Bonini, and membership chairman. Marcella Rhodes.

There are county fairs, country fairs, state fairs and school fairs, all of which are held in "fair" weather. Who would have conjured up a Christmas Fair, other than the collective units of the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center? It is to be held December 2, 3, 4, and 5 — fair weather or foul — at the Walnut Bowl in Walnut Creek and will offer the public everything from puppets and pillows to antiques, toys, delicacies, candles, candies and a host of other original suggestions for your Christmas gift list.

The Fair will open with a cocktail party premiere which will be invitational. The theme will be in an Oriental mode with booths designed after pagoda lines and decorated with Japanese lanterns. There is to be an interesting schedule consisting of many special events and all at no expense to those attending.

One highlight will be a fashion show with ensembles from Jo Ann's. Then there is the celebrity spotlight which will shine on Herb Caen as he participates in a bowling tournament . . . any challengers? . . . a performance by Templer the Magician and a tea and lecture on home decorations for the holidays by John Wheatman. How's that for a fair in December?

Each unit will be responsible for it's booth and merchandise, and there is already many a pricked finger and sticky pot-holder belonging to the many diligently working and active members of the various units supporting the Therapy Christmas Fair.

A general meeting for committee members and booth chairman was held October 1, at the Walnut Bowl with fair chairman Mrs. R. W. Curtis presiding. Other chairmen are as follows: Co-chairman, Mrs. Richard D. Emory; Jr. Chairman, Mrs. Philip Knox Jr.; decorations, Mrs. King Tolles; finance, Mrs. Lloyd Lekse; pre-party chairmen, Mrs. Lance Barden and Mrs. Aldo Vasconi; entertainment, Mrs. Richard Lieber; publicity, Mrs. Walter Reed and substitute chairman, Mrs. Robert Schroder.

And MORE about Christmas: Colorful wrappings, tree decorations, Santa Claus aprons and miniature contemporary trees were carefully placed about the living room of Mrs. Edward Bellegarde of Lafayette last week as members of the Valleymont Auxiliary group for the Booth Memorial Hospital gave friends and neighbors a chance to make early selections and have a late morning coffee break.

Mrs. Dean P. La Field computed the figures (no adding machine!) on the sales as Mrs. Parry Holmes served coffee and Danish pastries. ALL of Peardale turned out and Mrs. John Ratza who was responsible for the many articles on display, managed to make calm out of chaos as mothers and toddlers trundled about with their packages.

Other members assisting were Mesdames Charles M. Allen, James Robertson, C. O. Berggren, Ted Staffler, Keith Johnson, Ed Madison, Stan Walgren and Christine Stahl. Among the numerous guests; Mesdames E. Scheidler, K. Smetts, Donald Doughty, Richard Fulgham, Ray Sulprizio, Robert Hughey, Van Andersen, Richard Kent, "Bud" Tickner and Paul Daly.

Femineers Plan Dance November 7

With "Harlequinade" the theme, the annual scholarship dinner dance is being planned by the Femineers for November 7 at the California Golf Club.

The Femineers, an organization of wives of members of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Structural Engineers Association, support a scholarship fund for seven civil engineering students at the University of California at Berkeley.

In keeping with the theme, table and bandstand decorations will feature Harlequin checks in black and white as will also the gift box wrappings. Unique Harlequin trees, bearing tiny masks containing numbers matching those of gift boxes under them, will be an outstanding feature of the decorations and lucky winners will select their prizes from numerous gaily wrapped gifts.

Court jesters in Harlequin costumes will display scrolls announcing the events of the evening and on the bandstand a bewitching Columbine and her Harelequin will share the spotlight with Walt Tolleson's orchestra.

Over all, suspended from the ceiling, will float hundreds of balloons and streamers adding color to the gay event.

'Fresh, Delightful' Tell Tale of Heidi Unit Show

By JEAN McGUIRE

If you ask any one of the more than 800 guests who attened the 11th annual fashion show given by the Heidi Chapter of the Children's Home Society October 15, I'm sure the answer would be both immediate and unanimous, "Wonderful . . . Fresh . . . and Delightfully presented."

Located again this year at the lovely Castlewood Country Club, the "Feminine Fancies" were presented by H. Liebes & Co. of San Francisco and commentated by the extremely witty and charming Lloyd Liebes Jr.

The models, who were as stunning as the clothes, included from Lafayette, Mesdames Walter Markstein, Don Thompson, Thomas J. Stack, R. H. Goodale, Robert Pierson and W. J. McGuire.

From Orinda, Mesdames Philip Muscheid and Bernard Ginsberg. From Walnut Creek, Mesdames James Newcomb, Karl T. Goeppert Jr., Donald McVean and Jack Davis.

Mrs. E. J. Ringrose of Berkeley, Mrs. C. Wadsworth White of San Ramon and Miss Kathy Roberts from Calistoga were also models. Kathy, incidently, was the first Heidi theme girl 11 years ago. This year's Heidi was sweetly portrayed by little Martha Klass.

New this season are the long wool hostess skirts, many of them in large plaids and imported fabrics. So good looking also, are the easy fitting lines of the suits. Hipbone jackets that hug, but are unfitted. Much fur trim is featured.

Evening costumes that consist mainly of sheaths, many in fabulous brocade, complemented by three-quarter length bouffant coats. Bulky knit sweaters are the thing again this year, topping off rich imported wool stove pipe pants. Most unusual item shown was the beauiful hooded fur eskimo coat, worn over finely tailored Swedish ski pants. For that, this gal would even learn to ski!

Congratulations to the fashion show committee for a perfect job. They were Mesdames Charles Morrill, general chairman; E. E. Sappel, tickets and reservations; T. H. Lassagne and W. A. Siebert, models.

Mesdames E. S. Plescia and Jack Campbell, decorations; Robert Lockey, seating; Lee Frank, program; James Newcomb, publicity.

Mesdames J. M. Browning, procurement; Roy Falk and O. R. Hays, surprise gifts, and benefit, Mrs. R. P. Cornelison.

Music was tastefully supplied by E. Fodar of Walnut Creek.

In the words of Mrs. James Hicks, Heidi Chapter president, "The real purpose of the Children's Home Soceity is to bring together those children in search of parents, and those parents in search of children." Let's face it, it isn't often we can enjoy ourselves so much and at the very same time help a cause so worthy.

Trick or Treat To Aid Children

Hallowe'en and UNICEF are natural partners for trick or treat, say Mt. Diablo UN Chapter leaders.

Collections are made for the World's Children and one penny provides 5 cups of milk, a nickel, a shot of penicillin to cure the "Yaws", a terrifying crippling disease. Over 100 countries receive aid from the UNICEF fund.

Last year $1000 was collected, and the goal is $2000 this year.

Schools, churches, clubs, and Scouts have been asked to join the drive.

The Mt. Diablo Chapter is coordinating the program under the guidance of Esther Brown, chairman.

Cartons for collecting money are being furnished through the courtesy of the Carnation Company. The money collected will be received at the Red Cross Building in Civic Center on Hallowe'en.

Letter Gets Treatment From County in Big Drive

Forty volunteers, including members of the Contra Costa Highway Cleanup Committee, County Board of Supervisors, and the Sierra Club, set forth Sunday afternoon with gunny sacks and pointed sticks to remove the litter from a two-mile stretch of the Highway 21 freeway between the Walnut Creek city limits and Monument Boulevard.

Supervisor W. G. Buchanan, chairman of the cleanup committee, said the effort is designed as an object lesson to communities with littered highways in their environs.

"We hope we can influence community groups to undertake similar cleanup projects, and call to the public's attention the deplorable condition of some of our roadsides," Buchanan said.

THE TWO-HOUR cleanup drive was assisted by California Highway Patrol officers who directed traffic at the scene, and the county litter truck, which was expected to haul away about 50 sacks of tin cans, discarded cartons and other refuse collected by the volunteers.

The special committee arranging the drive includes R. D. "Scotty" Broatch, chairman, District Attorney John Neiedly, Undersheriff Harry Ramsay, Chief Sanitarian Thomas McMorrow, Captain Russell Magill and Sergeants Alex Koven and Dick Schutt of the Highway Patrol.

Each member of the highway cleanup committee was asked to bring two volunteer workers.

The shoulders and divided center strip of Highway 21 between Oak Park and Martinez turnoffs, according to Broatch, is one of the most littered stretches in the county.

THE VOLUNTEERS met near Monument Bowl and then were escorted by Highway Patrol squad cars to the littered area where they were issued equipment by Broatch from the county's litter truck. Patrol officers were stationed near the overpasses to warn traffic.

Valley Art Center Plans Meet With Enthusiasm

By MARIE MONAHAN

Lafayette is in for a handsome addition, judging from plaudits for the new proposed home of the Valley Art Center.

Over 200 members and guests gathered at the colonial home of Dr. and Mrs. Fletcher B. Taylor in Happy Valley Glen on Friday night for a champagne showing of the model of the proposed building.

Hostess in absentia was Gladys Taylor, recouping in the hospital following an auto collision in Carmel which occurred during a recent holiday there with her husband. But she insisted the party go on, in spite of her injuries, and friends were glad to hear that she was well on the mend.

The large living room was abbuble with comment and enthusiasm for the model, a two-story contemporary building with a sweeping circular steel staircase. Here, youthful David Thorne, Berkeley architect, finished his talk and colored film showing to a wave of applause. The wife and husband team of Ann and Dick Ward (they share Art Center presidential duties) busy with rounds of introductions, Ann in a powder blue print, pastel blue shoes to match.

Chairman of the Permanent Art Center Ruth Ellis and her doctor husband John joining a lively group . . . Cita Neilsen's dark beauty set off by a bouffant white organza splashed with supersized red dots . . . Andre and "Mops" Roegiers of Orinda stepping outside to view the statuary near the formal fountain the cherubic children in white terracotta modeled after the Taylor's youngsters many years ago. Rawlings Simon admiring a painting, a number of which are available from the Center's rental gallery and were displayed outside in the enclosed lanai.

Social Committee Chairman Jane Holmes and her husband Howard on hand, she assisting the hostesses, some of whom were Dorothy Stack, Carol Anderson, Mary Louise Morgan and Bobbie Merrill. Ruth Ford and June Martsolf passing through the crowd with trays of canapes and cups of champagne punch.

Irene Wilkinson in winter-white wool . . . Ada and Frank Clapp, Dorothy Stearn, the latter taking a rest from hostess duties to admire the miniature model . . . Architect Thorne, who designed the well-known Dave Brubeck home in Montclair, wearing a boyish griin and never tiring of all the questions asked about his artistic building plans which he has donated to the group.

Many greetings for the Bill Zions, Betty in black and white print and full of news of her recent sojourn in Mexico . . . The Mark Kermits, Peter Howards, Ed Vollmers, Mrs. Florence Morgan coming over from Danville, Jay Gordon and Harriet Ainsworth making dinner plans.

Baldwin Votes Consistently to Back President

Congressman John F. Baldwin tied with two other California congressmen in leading the 30-man California Congressional delegation in support of President Eisenhower during the first session of the 86th Congress, according to the "Congressional Quarterly."

Baldwin voted in support of President Eisenhower on 80 per cent of the roll call votes on the 54 issues on which the president had taken an announced position.

The only two other California congressmen to tie this 80 per cent support record of the president were Congressman J. Arthur Younger of San Mateo County and Congressman Craig Hosmer of Long Beach.

On foreign policy, Baldwin voted 100 per cent in favor of the president's position. There were nine votes in the field of foreign policy on which the president had taken an announced stand.

During the 85th Congress (1957-1958) Baldwin led the entire 30-man California delegation in support of the president, having voted 81 per cent of the time in support of the president on 110 roll calls on which the president had taken a position.

Radioactive Course Coming To This Area

The county Civil Defense office will hold a series of courses in the detection of radioactivity, popularly known as RADEF.

The RADEF instructors team, headed by Mrs. Barbara Burton, will reach Walnut Creek about the first week of February.

In the event of a thermo-nuclear war this group must carry the responsibility for determining the freedom from radiological contamination and the suitability of evacuated areas to receive returning evacuees.

Although Walnut Creek has a number of such qualified personnel, the number is still considered insufficient in view of possible reduction by moving, transfer, sickness.

Doll Contest Is Open to Teens

Girls 13 to 19 can be real Santa's Helpers and become eligible for an exciting prize, too, by entering the Seventeen Magazine Christmas Doll Contest, sponsored locally by Kahns Oakland and Concord stores. Dolls entered in the contest will be judged and then given to Children's Hospital of the East Bay, to be presented to hospitalized tots for Christmas.

Doll kits, sold at actual cost of 25c each, contain official entry blanks, instruction, rules and suggestions, as well as the plastic face and white cotton sock that form the basis of the doll. As in previous years, dolls should be made up in one or more of the three main categories: character, fashion or baby doll. There will be a first, second and third prize award, as well as several honorable mention prizes. Seventeen Magazine gives the first-prize winner a solid gold charm for her bracelet, as well.

Ceiling on Bond Costs Defers Large Debt

Taxes totaling more than $1,000,000 for repayment of the state loans to build schools in Contra Costa County were "forgiven" this year under a state proviso which puts a 45-cent ceiling on bond costs in any one year.

The deferment was the largest in the state, exceeding even Los Angeles County's.

Taxpayers in eight Contra Costa school districts benefited, as follows:

Alamo, $34,054.41; Danville Union, $67,115.11; Lafayette, $119,569.48; Mt. Diablo Unified (elementary), $608,202.96; Pinole-Hercules Union, $83,968.54; San Pablo, $121,216.02; Sheldon, $19,780.64; Walnut Creek, $107,722.37. Total, $1,161,629.53.

These districts, plus Oakley Union, which had no deferment, pay only a total of $220,270 instead of $1,381,899 because of the ceiling, said County Superintendent Floyd Marchus.

The 45-cent ceiling applies to the tax required to (1) retire the local district's outstanding bonds and (2) repay state loan funds.

That amount of state loan repayment which would require a tax in excess of 45 cents is deferred.

Rabid Skunk Bites Dog

A rabid dog has been found in the eastern portion of Contra Costa County, Dr. G. W. Kent, chief assistant health officer, announced.

This dog has not been vaccinated for rabies. It became ill approximately 5 or 6 weeks after being involved in a fight with a skunk. The skunk had invaded the yard where the dog was kept on a chain.

On September 16 the animal began to limp and appeared to have difficulty eating.

The following morning the dog was unable to stand and bared its teeth when approached. It was then taken to a veterinarian in Antioch who made a tentative diagnosis of rabies and informed the county animal control center.

Subsequent studies by the Contra Costa County Health Department laboratory confirmed the veterinarian's diagnosis of rabies.

Fortunately no person was bitten by this animal. This was in part due to the fact that the owner promptly sought a veterinarian's aid, said Kent.

This occurrence re-emphasizes the danger of rabies from exposure to wild animal life in this county. To date this year six rabid skunks have been found in close proximity to houses and family pets.

The threat of rabies can be minimized by vaccination and strict control of all dogs.

Sideline Slants

Should Sideline Coaches Or QBs Call Grid Plays?

By ERWIN MATTSON

The football season is really moving along and before we know it the preps will be winding up — on November 13, to be exact, and that is but three weeks away.

In fact the basketball mentors are getting that real dreamy look already, as they open practice sessions come November 2. It's usually November 1, but that falls on a Sunday, so it moves up to Monday.

* * *

One thing certain, the pennant winner in each of the divisions of the Diablo Valley Athletic League is far from sure at this point and it appears in each case to be a wide open race.

Opening league play pulled some surprises out of the bag and the practice records indicate a close go.

It is interesting to note the style of play used by different teams and the variation of methods.

One of the great subjects of debate is just how far the coach should go in calling plays.

Bob Muenter of Piedmont and Duane Louis of Las Lomas both shuttle players on each play as they send in the calls. One of the cries is "Give the game back to the kids — let them call them."

IN COLLEGE THEY don't call them from the sidelines, largely due to the fact that the collegians don't have unlimited substitutions.

One of the great controversial figures of the long past was St. Mary's famous Skip Madigan, who was annually charged with giving signals from the sidelines.

Skip's retort was that when he kicked the water bucket it wasn't to signal a punt, but merely a means of letting off steam.

SKIP, INCIDENTALLY, IS a very successful building contractor in the local area.

The pros are considered the acme of football, at least as far as experience goes, and they for the most part send in every play.

I can't help but feel that the coach in high school should do most, if not all, of the calling. A quarterback on the field has lots on his mind, and in the T-formation in particular handles the ball on every play.

Some say, "I can remember when I played — the quarterback called all the plays." The thing they forget is that the game has changed a lot — it's much more complex and, in general, much better played.

When I went to high school at Mt. Diablo from 1922-26 all teams used one formation, the single wing, and one defense, a diamond 7-1-2-1. The rule was set and fast that you only passed on third down with more than five yards to go, and then only if you were outside of your own 30. Inside, you kicked on third down, if you had more than five yards to go.

Today, defenses shift constantly from play to play and from game to game.

EXECUTION IS THE THING that makes for good play and good games. Selection of plays is an important factor.

It's one of those things that everyone will never agree on. My guess is that in a close game the coach calling the plays will, in general, bring home the winner.

It's fun to play the game, but the truth is that somehow it's always more fun when you win, whether it be a game, a foot race or business.

TO HAVE THE quarterback call them puts a lot of pressure on him and in reality he is in a poor position to study all of the defensive alignments.

The ideal would be for him to go to the bleachers and get the play from the bleacher quarterbacks who have an uncanny knack of calling the right play when it's all over!

* * *

One of the things that I would like to see done is to have lights go in at Miramonte.

It would serve many purposes. It would stimulate interest — player and spectator alike. It would serve as a means of financial revenue that would help the school program in general.

PROBLEMS AT LOCAL night games have been minor and it has enabled many to see games who would otherwise not be able to.

Maybe someone could look into the possibility of securing some of the lights from Seals Stadium.

* * *

Hear that Bruce Hilger, a grad of Miramonte, is doing all right in collegiate circles, as he has been a standout at Willamette University up in Oregon.

It's a school where the rules allow freshmen to play varsity so he has three years of play ahead of him.

Golden Toe Wins Don Go

The golden toe of Bill Jencks proved to be the difference last Friday night as the Acalanes Dons registered a 13-12 league win over the San Ramon Wolves.

It was a hard nosed ball game with neither club getting an offensive going with any regularity most of the night.

THE WOLVES PUT two men on the Don's speedy Chris Rinne to bottle him up, but in a way it backfired as the Dons hit consistenly up the middle using Rinne as a decoy most of the time.

It was a see-saw battle the first quarter as neither club scored. The Dons big break came in the second period when End Doug Inman recovered a fumble on San Ramon's 20. Five plays brought it to the nine and on a Quarterback Don Nelson fired a scoring pass to End Doug Treter who took it on the dead run in the end zone. Jenck's conversion try was wide.

The Wolves came back with a 40 yard drive with Fullback Bill Humphrey carrying the mail as he went the distance in three plays. The final play was a two yard smash over right guard.

THE CONVERSION try was blocked. It was 6-6 at the half and in the third quarter the Wolves howled again as they caught the Don secondary short with a 37 yard scoring aerial from Quarter Casey Evans to End Bruce Weiss.

Again San Ramon failed to convert and it proved to be fatal. The Don's came back in the third period to score after a drive with Nelson hitting Tom Strain in the end zone on a seven yard toss.

Local Bandsmen Will Take Part In Cal Band Day

Three high school bands from the central county area will participate in the annual High School Band Day on the University of California's Berkeley campus tomorrow.

They will represent Acalanes, Las Lomas and Miramonte high schools, all from the Acalanes Union High School District.

A TOTAL OF 115 bands, comprised of more than 7000 young musicians, from as far south as Bakersfield and as far north as the Oregon border, will perform at half time of the Cal-Oregon State game.

University officials bill the event as the biggest such performance in Cal's history.

At its inception in 1950, Band Day included only bands from the San Francisco Bay Area. Requests from high schools wanting to participate have increased to the extent that this year the entire field and both end zones will be covered with bandsmen.

The major purpose of the event, according to student coordinator Wayne Fenner, is to give the music students an opportunity to see the university campus and to become acquainted with college life. The conclave also affords the students the chance to meet with other musicians and to discuss mutual interests.

Curtain Rung Down at Oval By Hardtops; Champ Told

By JEAN McGUIRE

The final curtain was rung down Saturday night at Contra Costa Speedway in Pacheco. Along with most of our avid fans, I hate to see the season end.

High point man and new Bay Cities Racing Associaion champion is Santa Rosa's pride, Johnny Franklin. Runnerup was Gene Dudley of Napa, followed by Wally Baker of Sacramento and Leroy Geving of Petaluma. High point leaders among our home town drivers were Jack Huddleston, Concord, and Jack Clayton of Pleasant Hill.

Franklin showed his championship in real style by winning the 50 lap main event closes. He was followed by PeeWee Waybright of Oakland and Julian Castro of San Francisco. Castro, by the way, now holds the new track record for speed in qualifying.

Doug Fowler of San Francisco stole the honors in the semi-main, coming in ahead of Ted Marlowe, Oakland, and Nelson Snow of San Pablo.

In the final heat, Chuck Armstrong, Oakland, took the checker lin and Paul Granamen.

Napa's Tex Gratriex was the victor in the fast fourth heat. Close behind was fellow townsman Gene Dudley and Wally Baker.

The third heat winner was Steve Mentch of Oakland, Bob Duval of San Francisco and Johnny Franklin.

Glenn Todd, Alameda; Chet Strock, Concord, and Paul Granamen, San Francisco, were finishers one, two and three in the second heat, while Doug Fowler, Chuck Armstrong and Dave Logan of Concord did the honors in the first heat.

Trophy winner was again Doug Fowler, who made a big night of it, winning every event he was in. It isn't often one sees a clean sweep in a program of racing. Pacheco's Tim Kelly won the consolation race.

I would like to take this opportunity to throw a huge bouquet to all of our local leadfoots. They're wonderful sportsmen and skillful pilots.

'Guns Barking, Hunters Dropping!' Old Adage Points Out Mass Danger

About this time of year more guns are going off along our hills and valleys than on our television screens.

With some hunting seasons already going full blast and others about to open up, hunters are bagging game. They are also apt to be bagging themselves and other hunters. During the 1958 season, for instance, we had 120 reported hunter casualties in California, 18 of them fatal. In 1955, we had 132 reported casualties, 31 of them fatal.

Contrary to popular conception, most of these casualties occur at short distances and when visibility is good.

In the 1958 season, 75 per cent of all fatalities occurred at less than 10 yards.

Thirty-four per cent of the injuries occurred at less than 10 yards and about 44 per cent between 10 and 50 yards. Where conditions were reported, 17 of the accidental shootings occurred in completely open areas, 16 in areas where cover was light, and 12 in areas where cover was dense.

Just how do they do it? One hunter saw a gopher outside the cabin window, loaded his rifle, but the gopher disappeared. In a few minutes it reappeared. The hunter grabbed his loaded rifle from the gun rack, the trigger caught on something, and that was it.

Two boys were shooting at bottles. One of the guns jammed, the boy threw it to the ground, the gun went off, and the bullet hit his companion in the forehead.

Two other boys were hunting when they found a clip of high power rifle cartridges. Just for fun, one boy held his small bore rifle close to the clip, fired, the clip exploded, and a fragment of metal knocked out his eye.

A hunter was showing his companion how to attach a bayonet to a rifle. The hunter's hand slipped, hit the trigger, and his companion was taken to the hospital.

Tied for first place in causes of hunting accidents are carelessness and being covered by another hunter while he swings on the game. Each of these accounted for more than 18 per cent of the shootings. Other causes, in order of their importance, were: victim moving into line of fire, falls and stumbles, being out of sight of shooters, catching trigger on some obstruction, and crossing fences or other obstacles.

If you're a hunter, and well over 600,000 Californians are, you'd better keep these causes in mind this fall. Use common sense. Be careful. Don't you become involved in a hunting accident.

Rams Have Hands Full in Win

The Pleasant Hill Rams had their hands full in their league opener with the Clayton Valley Eagles last Friday night when they were forced to come from behind to eke out a 13-6 win.

The Eagles did a bit of clawing of their own when they drew first blood as they scored in the opening quarter.

THE EAGLES STARTED in impressive fashion as they took the opening kickoff and marched 81 yards to score. The drive took eleven plays with Quarterback Gary Loveridge taking it over from the two.

End Dave Dongen's conversion kick was blocked and it was 6-0 before the late fans had time to settle in their seats.

The Rams were wounded and they showed they didn't like it as they roared back with a touchdown of their own, going 80 yards in 17 plays and then making good on the conversion to go ahead to stay.

Quarterback Jim Maples did all the tallying, getting the TD from a yard out and then running over the conversion on an option.

The Rams got their second touchdown to wind up the game's scoring in the second quarter when Halfback Bill Bjorre picked off a Loveridge pass and ran it back to the Eagle 35.

TOM WEBB, BJORRE and Roger Foulk took turns in toting the ball to bring it to the two from where Foulke exploded up the middle for the big six. The conversion missed when Maples was stopped short.

The Eagles, far from through, drove to the Ram one yard line in the fourth quarter, only to have Ram Tackle Ryan knock the ball loose on a jarring tackle with Pleasant Hill recovering and hanging on to notch the win.

Fulfills His Promise to Son

One shot from his 30.06 rifle and Claude Franklin, Kushin's Store manager, had fulfilled a promise made to his 10-year-old son, Claude Jr.

The senior Franklin promised he would bring home a bear skin when he left with two hunting companions for Paradise Valley, Idaho, a few weeks ago.

Franklin, Bob Ellsworthy and Wes Hester "packed in" for two weeks looking for elk, but Franklin's first clear shot came when the 350-pound brown bear appeared.

RAILROAD FEATHERBEDDING:

$500,000,000 LOSS

TO THE NATION—INCLUDING YOU—EVERY YEAR

Featherbedding on the railroads — pay for work not done or not needed — is costing the American people the shocking total of more than $500,000,000 a year.

You pay for it every time you shop, because featherbedding costs are hidden in the price of everything you buy.

Obsolete union work rules, involving the railroad operating employees, are responsible for this gigantic burden. Right now, for instance, these rules require every diesel locomotive to carry a fireman — even though diesels have no fires to stoke, no boilers to tend.

The forthcoming negotiations between the railroads and the unions are urgently important to the whole nation.

In asking the unions to drop these featherbedding rules, all the railroads ask for is a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

Wolves Prepare

The San Ramon Wolves board the bus tonight and head for Piedmont where they have their work cut out for them if they are to hit the win columns as they tackle a Piedmont eleven that is hungry and has taken a pledge to go all the way.

Last week in the opener, Acalanes edged San Ramon 13-12 while Piedmont took a 21-7 decision from the surprising Miramonte Matadors.

San Ramon has an edge in the weight department.

Las Lomas, Rams Favored; Dons Draw Bye

Miramonte Faces Knights, Panthers Go Vs. Ram High

The Miramonte Matadors, who are proving to be much tougher than most people expected, try their luck again tonight as they face the Las Lomas Knights under the Walnut Creek lights.

Knight Coach Duane Louis had his charges well rested after drawing a bye in the league opener and it remains to be seen if they have retained their edge after holding a strong Pleasant Hill to a 6-6 tie two weeks ago.

SURPRISE OF THE Knight eleven has been Quarter Bob Morris, a senior. Out for the first time Morris started out as a third stringer, but has come a long way to give the Knights strength in a key spot.

Strength of the Knights appears to be what is fast becoming a rock ribbed defense that takes pride in yielding as few yards as possible.

The man to stop as far as Miramonte is concerned is Fullback Mike Hair, who has rolled up most of the Mats yardage from his fullback position.

COACH BOB BROOKS of Miramonte has done a top job with the limited material he has had on hand. They gave Piedmont a stiff battle in the league opener before going down 21-7.

Three changes have been announced in the Matador lineup with Corbett Krool, a 6 foot three, 175 pound senior going at right end while Buddy Boeger replaces Jack Putnam at left guard, who as a hip pointer.

Steve Abbott wingback is doubtful which means that either Bill Kent, a transfer, or Bob Woodward will get the call.

The Knights are undefeated to date while the Mats have as yet to win.

Chances are the bleachers will be filled when the opening kickoff takes place at 8 p.m.

Rams Ready to 'Rassle' Antioch's Cats in Papersville Arena Tilt

The Pleasant Hill Rams rose to the occasion last week to edge a good Clayton Valley team 13-6 in their league opener and are favored to win at Antioch tonight.

The Panthers dropped 20-14 to the Pacifica Spartans in their opener last Friday night.

PLEASANT HILL Coach Hal Briggs has his woes with numerous players sidelined with assorted injuries while three players were missing Monday, down with the flu bug.

The trio, victims of the flu, were Dick Doyle, end, Archie Allison, quarter, and Roger Foulk, rated as the circuit's top fullback.

In the line a big problem to be solved rests at guard where George Bruns is sidelined for the second week with a pinched neck nerve, Doug Uranius has a sprained ankle as does Jim Hinds.

Chris Atkinson, a 166 pound junior, goes at one spot while big Walt Dathe adds heft and ability at the other spot as he moves over from tackle with Terry Schutten, 168 pound junior fiiling the resulting tackle gap.

The Rams are undefeated to date although they were tied by Las Lomas in a practice tilt two weeks ago.

Laguna Seca Race Entered

Three Walnut Creek area men, Vincent Jones, Gerald Bettencourt and Al Whatley, will be competing for the winning checkered flag at the Laguna Seca Sports Car Road Races in Monterey this weekend.

Jones, who lives at 2266 Oakvale Road, Walnut Creek, is a registered senior driver of the Sports Car Club of America. He will be piloting a TR-3 Roadster.

Bettencourt makes his home at 1318 Creekside Drive, Walnut Creek. Although he has only been driving in competition for the last eight months, he has taken three third places in sports car racing and will be trying for additional honors with his Porsche.

THE HUNT is over for a 350-pound brown bear and for Claude Franklin, who told his son he would bring home a bear skin on the trip to Paradize Valley, Idaho. One shot did the job.

Mats Make it Hot, But Lose Again

The Piedmont clan had a hot afternoon in more ways than just the weather last Friday at Miramonte.

FULLBACK BOBBY JONES, Piedmont's top runner, showed why he was all-league as he scored a pair of Clan Tee Dees both coming in the first half.

The first came when he climaxed a 70 yard drive by going four yards over right guard for the score and then sprinting 90 yards in the second quarter as a punt return.

Piedmont's third touchdown came in the fourth stanza with Halfback John Pfeiffer accounting for it on an eight yard crack over left guard to end a 45 yard drive.

Tackle Hughes Crumple, a conversion expert, split the uprights on all three tries.

STANDOUTS FOR Miramonte were Charlie Blue and Bruce Hancock, who besides playing good all around games, collected seven points for the home club.

Fullback Blue scored in the fourth quarter and started it all when he intercepted a Piedmont pass on Piedmont's 37.

Two plays brought the pigskin to the 13 and on a fake pass play, Blue found a hole up the middle and romped the distance.

Hancock got into the scoring act when he picked up a bad pass from center in the conversion try and skirted end.

Babe Zaharias Play Concludes Sunday in SF

Competition in the Babe Didrikson Memorial Fund Golf Tournament will close on Sunday afternoon announced Don Doten, chairman of the Contra Costa county tournament committee.

On Sunday afternoon the local scores of players at eight Contra Costa clubs will be tested against those of top-ranking professional players at Harding Park Golf Course in San Francisco. The exhibition match will start at 1:30 p.m.

Playing in the exhibition foursome, Ken Venturi will match his score against the best male scores from Contra Costa county, and Jackie Pung will match hers against the best of the local women.

There's still time for improvement of the local scores already posted, because contestants can enter as many times as they like, Chairman Doten said.

Entry tickets at $2 each may be obtained from Orinda Country Club, Tilden Park Golf Club, Richmond Golf Club, Pittsburg Golf and Country Club, Contra Costa Country Club, Antioch Golf Club, Mira Vista Country Club and Diablo Country Club.

The Sunday exhibition match promises to be a good show, with Harvey Ward and James Garner of "Maverick" fame, completing the foursome. All entrants in the tournament are entitled to join the gallery by virtue of their tournament participation and tickets will also be sold at the course.

All proceeds will go to the American Cancer Society in memory of Babe Didrikson Zaharias, famous woman athlete who died of cancer in 1956.

Olde Prof. Goes Out On a Limb

By SOSS OPPLES

Last week Ye Olde Professor missed more than he likes to, or should we say more than is customary.

The crystal ball looks to be a bit clearer this week, and even though there are some toughies, look out as here they are:

In the Foothill Division of the Diablo Valley Athletic League, a pair of games are on tap with the Acalanes Dons drawing the bye.

Las Lomas hosts the Miramonte Matadors and it will be interesting to see how the Knights go in their league opener. The Professor sez, "Las Lomas 20, Miramonte 0."

San Ramon plays at Piedmont and it's the Piedmont Clan, 20-12. Piedmont's speed and San Ramon's inability to hit a peak will be the difference.

IN THE CONTRA Costa Division of the DVAL, tab Pittsburg over Picificia, 26-7; Diablo to nail Clayton Valley, 26-7; and Pleasant Hill, despite injuries, to topple Antioch, 19-7.

In collegiate circles last week, Cal was the long shot pick to upset U.C.L.A. Fumbles and miscues upset the Cal applecart and the Prof's crystal ball. This week it's Oregon State 20, Cal 13. (Editor's Note: You giving up so soon?)

Stanford, who plays Cal in the so-called Big Game, gets a big whacking down Los Angeles way. It's Southern Cal, 26-6.

THE UPSET of the week—Notre Dame over Northwestern. (Editor's Note: Aw, c'mon now!) Notre Dame has some good horses and they are due to run.

Michigan State raps Indiana, 26-12, while U.C.L.A. topples the Air Force, 20-13.

A pair of sure bets—Rutgers over Lehigh, 20-0, and Citadel to trim Furman, 13-0.

THE 49ERS come home and we pick them to top the Bears, 33-27. It's good for the gate! (Editor's Note: It's Greek to us, but Olde Soss says to check with Jack Hageman for the meaning.)

ZING! GO THE STRINGS OF OUR TANK

That's not hi-fi Bill Lee's tuning. No, Bill's tuned in on a direct line to that "spider" spinning its steel web around the new Echo Springs concrete reservoir in the hills behind Lafayette. The sound? More than 99,000 feet of wire stretching to a tension of 140,000 pounds per square inch. Zzinnnggg!

Actually, Bill's electronic helper, the Stroboconn, does the listening. And records the tension on a dial. Which is how Bill knows that Echo Springs will safely hold the half-million gallons of water coming its way soon.

Sound complex? Well, of course it does. But complexity is daily fare for East Bay MUD's skilled staff of engineers. Knowledge, research, experiment, application of findings. All aimed at bringing you plenty of pure mountain water. Perhaps you'd like a glass right now?

Plan Expert Will Speak at Church Series

The problems facing us in an expanding society was the subject of a challenging discussion led by Dr. John Dyckman, noted city planner, Wednesday at Orinda Community Church.

The discussion constituted the third of a series of four meetings being sponsored by the Orinda church during October as its fall Christian Life Series. The general theme of the series is "The Christian in the mid-20th Century." The title of Dr. Dyckman's discussion was "Our Expanding Society and You."

DR. DYCKMAN, visiting professor of planning at University of California, is a member of the faculty at University of Pennsylvania. In the past few years, he has been a consultant to such groups as the New York City Planning Commission, Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority and Stanford Research Institute.

He has served as the senior planner for the Chicago Housing Authority and has been associated with ACTION, the American Council for Better Neighborhoods.

Dr. Dyckman's book, "Capital Requirements for Urban Renewal," will be published by McGraw-Hill later this year.

THE FINAL MEETING in the series will be led by Dr. A. Durwood Foster, associate professor of Christian theology at Pacific School of Religion, and will cover "The Christian Church and the World Today."

Registration for the remaining meeting in the series will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for high school students.

What Does Mrs. Wrazel Say About Sun?

Mrs. Janet Wrazel of 133 Lucinda Lane, Walnut Creek, told The Sun, "I would like to say that on my last ad (misc. furniture) I received over 35 calls, and sold all but one item the first day.

"This is an old story to you, I am sure, but I just wanted to add my praise," she added.

She was seconded by B. C. Bozley of 1201 Vacation Drive, Lafayette, who sold a convertible sofa with a single Sun classified ad which produces 5-in-1 results.

Five-in-one means all Sun class ads automatically appear for one price in The Sun Shopping News, reaching 28,000 central county homes, and the Walnut Creek Sun, Lafayette Sun, Orinda Sun and Pleasant Hill Sun.

The regular subscription papers and thousands more readers.

No other local paper can offer this, and a 14-word ad costs only $1.60 for all five appearances.

Plans Made for Bazaar to Help Two Lynn Schools

Plans are in the making for the bazaar to be held November 13 and 14 at the Veterans Memorial Building in Walnut Creek, according to Mrs. George Keim of Concord who is chairman of the affair which will benefit the Lynn School of Danville and the Lynn Training Center of Walnut Creek.

Anyone interested and willing to do needlework or sewing on Christmas articles, please contact Mrs. Keim at MUlberry 2-3055, Mrs. Ralph Trost at MUlberry 2-9278, or Mrs. Robert Kromer at ATlantic 3-6837.

EBMUD Fluoridation Vote Set by District's Board

An election to determine whether East Bay Municipal Utility District water is to be fluoridated will be scheduled for June 1960.

The board of directors of East Bay Municipal Utility District at its regular meeting recently announced its intent to proceed with the steps necessary to schedule an election at the June 1960 primaries on the question of fluoridation within the terms of Senate Bill No. 865.

SB 865 is an amendment to the public utilities code which authorizes a municipal utility district to add fluorine or fluorine compounds to the water supply of the district, only if a majority of the voters of a district voting upon the proposition have voted in favor of the addition of fluorine or fluorine compounds.

"This action," President Louis J. Breuner said, "does not represent a change in the policy or attitude of the board of directors of EBMUD toward fluoridation. EBMUD has, and will continue to maintain a neutral position, since we feel this is a matter the voters should decide."

"Since opinions on the merits of fluoridation are so divergent, it seems only fair to allow the people who will be drinking fluoridated water the chance to decide whether they want it." This can, of course, best be determined by placing the matter before the voters, and this will be done at the June 1960 election," Breuner concluded.

Nurserymen Tell Way of Keeping Bermuda Green

Here are some points for the gardener this week:

Bermuda grass lawns can be roughed up with a rake and cut short, then seeded over with a rye grass cover to keep them green in winter.

Sasanqua camellias — those willowy members of the family —are in bloom at most nurseries now. You can espalier them, even use them as a limited ground cover if you tie branches down.

Keep watering roses if rains fall. You want to get the most out of whatever bloom is left in them.

Berried shrubs such as Holly, Christmas Berry or Pyracantha can be set out for spot color.

Late blooming gladiolus bulbs should be lifted and stored. Let tops dry off, then cut them just above the bulb. Gently pull the old mother bulb from the base of the new one and discard it.

New Parking At Broadway

There's never a need to worry about parking in the Broadway Shopping Center, according to George Webster, chairman of the Broadway Merchants Association.

New parking spaces have been added behind Grodins on the property formerly housing the McDonnell Nursery, he said.

"This will add even more parking spaces to the 2000 which are already available at the center," Webster added.

"Peak hour parking is never a problem either," he continued, "When one area fills up there are a number of others to choose from, he concluded.

Cold Weather and Effort Pay Off With Fall Color

The color of leaves in California's fall depends directly on two important factors: One is the effort we put into preparing for them and second is the degree of cold we get in October.

There is no chance to enjoy fall foilage in our garden if we didn't plant plants that color up after a cold snap.

THE CALIFORNIA Association of Nurserymen has been reminding us since early summer that trees such as sweet gum and maidenhair, among others, will give a good account of themselves wherever planted.

If you're in doubt of this, drop by a C.A.N. nursery and check out with the specimen trees in containers.

Bear in mind, too, that whatever else is showing color in your neighborhood nursery will do the same in your garden.

THE GARDENER SHOULD not worry about fall color that is lacking, however, since there are so many things to keep him occupied.

The bulb planting season is at its peak with daffodils, tulips, hyacinths and many others waiting to go in. Lilies can be planted any time now and should be set out as soon as you get them home from the nursery.

Don't let lily bulbs sit around since they are never really dormant and miss having ground around them even for short periods.

IT'S LATE FOR lawn planting in some areas, but it's an ideal time to plant new beds of perennials and annuals for next spring. Such winter annuals as pansies and violas, calendulas and cineraria can also go in. They won't bloom as early as the same plants set out a month ago, but they'll bloom longer into spring.

Such activity in fall may sound strange to the gardener recently arrived from the east, but he will soon get used to it. Californians of more than a year's standing know that October is one of our busiest months.

The rewards of October gardening are felt through winter and into spring and summer. As a planting season, it rivals spring in the Golden State, so get out and get with it. You'll not be sorry.

Here's How to Have Fun: Play Needle in Haystack

Needle in the haystack, one of the key attractions of the Broadway Birthday party, is one of the most fascinating and rewarding games ever to be brought to the central county area, according to George Webster, chairman of the Broadway Merchants Association.

The game is fun and it's easy to play, Webster explained.

Here's how it works:

Thousands of dulled needles will be placed in a haystack. Any person who pulls out a needle, which changes color when it is dipped into a special solution, wins a prize and there will be a prize a minute, Webster added.

The top prize will be a television set and there will be thousands of other fine prizes, Webster commented.

"After the person with the needle, which has changed color, steps over to the Broadway Board of Gifts, they dip into the treasure chest and pull out a sealed envelop.

"It's easy and fun, tickets to participate in the Broadway Needle in the Haystack are available at all participating stores.

"Don't forget tickets will be available all during the Broadway Birthday celebration. The needle swing October 23 and October 24," Webster concluded.

Tape Recorders Approved for Use by Sheriff

The Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors has approved the use of automatic magnetic tape-recorders by sheriff's deputies.

The board stated the use of the recorders will speed the processing of crime reports and increase the time which Contra Costa County sheriff's deputies can devote to patrol duties.

The board authorized employment of three typist-clerks to operate equipment which will automatically record reports, telephoned to Sheriff Walter F. Young's Martinez office by deputies from the scene of crimes under investigation.

Undersheriff Harry D. Ramsay said the reports will be transcribed immediately, 24 hours daily, including weekends, by central office personnel. Priority will be given to felony reports in periods of heavy activity, he added.

The new system, advocated by Young when he took office last January, will eliminate the time deputies now spend typing reports, Undersheriff Ramsay said.

Under the current system, in operation since creation of the Richmond, Lafayette and Oakley sheriff's substations in 1955.

Broadway Inviting 'YOU' To Find Haystack Needle

Thousands of tickets are being passed out at stores in the Broadway Shopping Center for the Needle in the Haystack Contest to be Friday and Saturday, according to George Webster, chairman of the Broadway Merchants Association.

The gala event, which will feature a prize a minute over the two day period is one of the highlights of the Broadway Birthday celebration which is now in progress, Webster continued.

Tickets have been handed out over the past two weeks at all participating stores in the center, the manager noted.

Top prize in the Needle in the Haystack contest is a television set, but prizes will be passed out to persons with the lucky needle, Webster said.

To participate in the Needle in a Haystack contest, Webster continued, persons must be at least 16 years of age.

"The fun filled event will conclude the Birthday Celebration in the Broadway Shopping Center, but merchants throughout the center have stocked up with plenty of quality goods to that special savings are afforded to all Broadway shoppers," Webster concluded.

Fathers Can Enter Labor Room at Muir Hospital

Will expectant fathers be able to stay with their wives in the labor rooms of new John Muir Memorial Hospital?

The obstetrical department is planned with this in mind, said Dr. Frederick M. Hanson of the hospital's board of trustees.

Months of work in planning by doctors, hospital architects, interest women, and a leading hospital consultant, George U. Wood of Orinda, have gone into plans for obstetrical and maternity facilities, Dr. Hanson added.

THREE INDIVIDUAL labor roms, without windows, toilet facilities and air conditioning are arranged for maximum efficiency in obstetrical nursing supervision.

The two sound-proofed delivery rooms planned in the hospital's first building stage will be equipped for complete anesthesia procedures.

Delivery rooms are near the centrally located operating rooms for convenience in possible emergency situations, although the obstetrical and maternity wing is at the opposite end of the hospital from the emergency and medical-surgical bedroom wing.

A doctors' room in the hospital will make it easier for patients' physicians to remain near them at the hospital, day or night, when desirable.

AT TIME OF delivery, husbands probably will go to the main hospital waiting room. Valuable space which otherwise would be occupied by expectant fathers' waiting room can be used instead for hospital medical procedures..

While built-in facilities for "rooming-in" babies with mothers are not planned for the first building stage of the hospital, special arrangements are considered for new mothers who want to spend more time with their babies than normal feeding periods allow.

Babies will be cared for in nurseries with the latest equipment. the main nursery will be divided into two sections, one for newborn babies, and the other for those being taken to and from their mothers for feedings.

A separate suspect nursery is provided for babies who appear to be unwell. A formula room adjoins the main nursery.

AIRY, LIGHT maternity bedrooms in cheerful decor, air-conditioned like the rest of the hospital, are mostly two-bed, with two four-bed wards.

Merry-Go-Round Rides Offered

The kids can go round and round on the Broadway Merry-Go-Round and have a real ball, while mother does a little shopping for the family, announced George Webster, chairman of the Broadway Merchants Association.

And, during Broadway's special celebration of its birthday, Webster commented, all merry-go-round rides will be free.

Girl Scouts Will Offer Local Cookie

A Bay Area bakery, "Mothers," was chosen to supply the Mt. Diablo Area Girl Scout Council's 1960 cookie, last week.

The council's board members voted 12-1 for the local cookie, ending a controversy where it was feared that San Francisco teamsters would not support the United Crusade unless a local cookie were chosen.

Last year the council chose an Oklahoma cookie, when only one Bay Area firm submitted samples for the cookie taste tests and was found wanting. This year two local firms submitted samples and the cookie finally chosen was found to be quite tasty, said directors.

During the discussions, a council finance committee member submitted his resignation because only the local firm's cookies were taste-tested this year and a director offered her formal protest.

Three types of cookies will be offered this year—Danish variety, mints and assorted sandwiches.

The directors also considered including almonds with the cookies and Products Chairman Janet Kaufman said she had been contacted by a firm offering slivered, whole raw and whole salted almonds.

Neighborhood chairmen will be consulted.

Mrs. Vera Freeman, council president, said,
